

Challenging the Orthodoxies

Edited by

Richard M. Auty

Senior Lecturer, Department of Geography, Lancaster University and

John Toye

Director, Institute of Development Studies, University of Sussex, Brighton

Contents

List of Acronyms	vii
Notes on Contributors	viii
1 Introduction: Challenging the Orthodoxies Richard M. Auty and John Toye	1
I Economic Responses
2 Lowest Common Denominator or Neoliberal Manifesto? The Polemics of the Washington Consensus John G. Williamson	13
3 Is the Debt Crisis Largely Over? A Critical Look at the Data of International Financial Institutions Kunibert Raffer	23
4 The Environment for Entrepreneurship Renee Prendergast	39
5 Flexibility and Economic Progress Tony Killick	56
II Social Responses
6 Is the Idea of Development Eurocentric? Nigel Dower	85
7 Life Chances, Lifeworlds and a Rural Future Jan Kees van Donge	103
8 Flexible Work and Female Labour: The Global Integration of Chilean Fruit Production Stephanie Barrientos	125
9 Diversifying Health Service Finance in Botswana: The Impact of an Emergent Private Sector Jacqueline Charlton	142

III Rural and Environmental Responses
10 Green, Brown and Red issues in a Black Economy: Thoughts on Sustainable Development in Low-income Countries James Winpenny	169
11 Rural Development Models in China and Taiwan Revisited Jerry Jones	181
12 Conservation or Development in the Terai? The Political Ecology of Natural Resources in Nepal Katrina Brown	205
13 Private Markets for Wastes: The Case of Calcutta Anu Bose	228
Index	244