

Growth,
Development,
and the Service Economy in the
Third World

DAVID L. MCKEE

PRAEGER

New York
Westport, Connecticut
London

Contents

Tables	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
1. Introduction	1
PART I A GENERAL OVERVIEW	5
2. The Role of Service Activities in the World Economy	7
3. On Services and Growth Poles in Advanced Economies	15
4. Services and the Development Process in Third World Economies	27
PART II SOME SPECIFICS ON SERVICES IN THIRD WORLD SETTINGS	37
5. Tourism and the Development Process	39

6.	Tourist Enclaves and Host Nation Development	55
7.	Cruise Ships and the Development of Small Island Nations	65
8.	Offshore Banking Centers and the Development Process	77
PART III	SERVICES AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF URBAN LABOR MARKETS	85
9.	Urban Expansion and Structural Change in the Puerto Rican Economy	87
10.	Private Service Employment in Puerto Rican Metropolitan Areas	99
PART IV	SOME FINAL REFLECTIONS	109
11.	An Overview of Services and Expansionary Processes	111
12.	Service Realities and Economic Policy	121
	Selected Bibliography	131
	Index	143