

Regionalism and Africa's Development

Expectations, Reality and Challenges

S. K. B. Asante

*Senior Regional Adviser in Economic Cooperation and Integration and Coordinator, Southern Africa Desk and Task Force
Cabinet Office, Economic Commission for Africa
Addis Ababa, Ethiopia*

Foreword by K. Y. Amoako

United Nations Under-Secretary-General and Executive Secretary of the Economic Commission for Africa

Contents

List of Tables	ix
List of Abbreviations and Acronyms	x
Foreword by K.Y. Amoako, United Nations Under-Secretary-General and Executive Secretary of the Economic Commission for Africa	xii
Preface	xiv
1 Introduction: Africa and the World of Regionalism: Old and New	1
The First Wave of Regionalism	2
The Second Wave of Regionalism	3
Africa and the Brave New World of Regionalism	8
Part I
Regionalism in Africa: The First Phase
2 Regionalism as a Key Element of African Development Strategy	17
The Term 'Economic Integration'	18
'Regional Cooperation' and 'Regional Integration'	20
Stages or Different Forms of Integration	21
Theoretical Background	23
Politics, Economics and Regionalism	25
The Rationale for Regionalism in Africa	28
Pan-Africanism and Continental Economic Integration	32
The 1960–70 Period: Modest Beginnings of Economic Integration	34
The 1970s and 1980s: Euphoria for Economic Integration	37
3 Experience of Regionalism in Africa: A Critical Appraisal Between Standstill and Progress?	45
Experience in Market Integration	47
Performance in Positive Integration/Policy Harmonization	50
Limited Progress in Infrastructural Integration	53
Inadequate Performance in Monetary and Financial Integration	55
Poor Implementation Record	56

4	Interlocking Problems of African Regionalism	62
	Is Market Integration Appropriate?	62
	Management of Regional Economic Integration	71

Part II

Into the 1990s: The New Phase of Regionalism in Africa

5	New Regional Initiatives in Africa	87
	African Economic Community: A New Hope for Africa?	89
	The Abuja Treaty: Principles, Institutions and Decision Making Processes	91
	Approach and New Issues Faced by Abuja	98
	The Abuja Treaty: Issues of Implementation	104
	The Cross-Border Initiative	108
	Vertical Integration Schemes	114
6	New Challenges to African Regionalism	118
	The Challenge of Trading Blocs	118
	The Challenge of the Lomé Convention	125
	The Challenge of Structural Adjustment Programmes: A 'Plus' or a 'Risk'?	129
	The Challenge of Democratic South Africa	134
7	Regionalism in Africa: Towards a New Direction	138
	Towards a New Approach to Regional Integration	138
	Strengthening National Institutional and Managerial Capacity	149
	Strengthening the Institutional Capacity of the Economic Communities	155
	Crucial Factors in Implementing the AEC Treaty	163
	Enhancing South-South Cooperation	166
8	Conclusion: Time for Action	169
	Policy Responses to the Emerging Regional Age	170
	Towards Sustainable Developmental Regionalism	173
	The Way Forward	177

Notes	180
Select Bibliography	193
Index	202