

Runes and Germanic Linguistics

by

Elmer H. Antonsen

Mouton de Gruyter
Berlin · New York 2002

Contents

Preface	vii
Figures	xvii
Tables	xxi

Chapter 1 What is runology? 1

1.1	The role of paleography	1
1.2	Proper focus	3
1.3	Runology and mythology	13

Chapter 2 The oldest recorded Germanic 17

2.1	Linguistic reconstruction	17
2.2	Linguistic inventories vs. linguistic structures	18
2.3	Proto-Germanic vowels	19
2.4	Late Proto-Germanic	23
2.5	Defining Proto-Germanic	26
2.6	The end of Proto-Germanic	29
2.7	What's in a name?	31
2.8	Northwest Germanic: Language and inscriptions	32
2.9	The end of Northwest Germanic	34
2.10	Conclusion	34

Chapter 3 The earliest Germanic writing system..... 37

3.1	The nature of runes	37
3.2	The older, or Germanic futhorc	42

Chapter 4 The graphemic system of the older runes..... 51

4.1	Uncertain runes	51
4.2	Distinctive features	52
4.2.1	Runes with 2 staffs	52

4.2.2	Runes with 1 staff and 1 branch	53
4.2.3	Runes with 1 staff and 2 branches	53
4.2.4	Runes with pockets or crooks	54
4.3	Variant runes.....	55
4.3.1	A d or not a d ?.....	56
4.3.2	When is an r an r ?.....	64
4.3.3	Questions about o	66
4.3.4	Double-faced runes	66
4.3.5	When is A not an A?.....	69
4.3.6	Obscured by corrosion	70

Chapter 5 The fifteenth rune 73

5.1	Earlier attempts at deciphering	73
5.2	The rise of comparative linguistics	74
5.3	The conflict over Schleswig-Holstein.....	76
5.4	Peter Andreas Munch.....	76
5.5	Ludvig Wimmer.....	79
5.6	Present-day scholars.....	81
5.7	Reinterpretation	83
5.8	Chronology	87
5.9	Northwest Germanic /r/ and /z/.....	89
5.10	Conclusion.....	90

Chapter 6 Age and origin of the fupark..... 93

6.1	Earlier views on the age and origin.....	93
6.2	Erik Moltke and the Danish theory	93
6.3	A structural approach to the question of origins.....	99
6.4	The Latin theory.....	106
6.5	"Primitive alphabets"	108
6.6	Inscriptions on metal	111
6.7	Writing traditions	114
6.8	Conclusion.....	116

Chapter 7	Reading runic inscriptions	119
7.1	Directionality and arrangement	119
7.2	The Järsberg stone	120
7.3	Other runestones of more than one line	123
7.4	The Tune stone	126
7.5	A question of alignment: The Opedal stone	134
7.5.1	Previous readings	134
7.5.2	Previous interpretations	136
7.5.3	Opedal's "evidence" for /e/ > /i/ before /-u/	137
7.5.4	Two lines or one?	139
7.5.5	The age of the Opedal inscription	141
7.6	Hidden boustrophedon	142
7.7	Transposed runes	144
7.8	Conclusion	148
Chapter 8	Dating runic inscriptions	149
8.1	Linguistic and runological evidence	149
8.2	Pseudo-evidence for dating	150
8.3	No help from archeologists:
	The Strøm whetstone	155
8.3.1	Grammatical analysis of the whetstone's inscription	156
8.3.2	The verb forms	157
8.3.3	Two unattested nouns	159
8.3.4	The shape of two runes	160
8.4	Different materials, different shapes?	162
8.5	Relative dating from linguistic evidence	163
8.6	Chronological stalemate in the older period	166
Chapter 9	Sacral or secular?	169
9.1	Magical "solutions" and their consequences	169
9.2	"Imaginative" and "skeptical" runologists	170
9.3	Not intended for human eyes	172
9.4	The assumed magical power of the runes	176

9.4.1	The Noleby stone	180
9.5	The runemaster, erilaz , as “runemagician”	185
9.6	The runemaster and the cult of Odin.....	188
9.6.1	Assumed Odin-designations	192
9.6.2	The “magic word” alu	196
9.7	“Runic tradition” through the millenia.....	200

Chapter 10 Runic typology 207

10.1	The role of typology.....	207
10.2	The nature of the corpus.....	207
10.3	Inscriptions with isolated words	209
10.3.1	alu	209
10.3.2	ehwu	210
10.3.3	laukaz	211
10.3.4	laþu	212
10.3.5	hagalu	212
10.3.6	salu	213
10.4	Names in isolation.....	214
10.5	Single runes	215
10.6	Isolated names on loose objects.....	217
10.7	Isolated names on stones	218
10.8	Commemorative inscriptions.....	222
10.8.1	The By stone	223
10.8.2	Stones with only two names in the nominative	223
10.9	Inscriptions without verbs	224
10.9.1	The Nordhuglo stone.....	225
10.9.2	The Veblungsnes cliff	226
10.9.3	The Rosseland stone	226
10.9.4	The Valsfjord cliff.....	227
10.9.5	The Opedal stone	228
10.9.6	The Vettelund stone	229
10.10	Symbols of office.....	230
10.10.1	The Kragehul lanceshaft	230
10.10.2	The Lindholmen bonepiece	232
10.10.3	The Nydam wooden axhandle	233

Chapter 11	Phonological rules and paradigms	237
11.1	Laws of final syllables	237
11.2	The phonological rules	240
11.3	Root-consonant and i -stems	242
11.3.1	The root-consonant paradigms	243
11.3.2	The i -stem paradigms	245
11.4	Repatterning of the paradigms	247
11.5	Confirming evidence	251
11.6	The genitive plural and trimoric vowels	254
11.7	Proto-Indo-European vowel sequences	256
Chapter 12	Some controversial grammatical forms	261
12.1	Proper names in -o	261
12.2	Proper names without endings	273
12.3	Nouns with nominative -s	279
12.4	The verb */faihiĵanan/	280
12.5	The ghost-form *irilaz	282
Chapter 13	Runic syntax	285
13.1	Linguists' use of runic inscriptions	285
13.2	Descriptive adjectives	287
13.3	Attributive genitive	291
13.4	Pronominal modifiers	292
13.5	Position of the verb	293
13.6	Conclusion	296
Chapter 14	"Archaicizing" inscriptions	297
14.1	Vernacular vs. elevated style	297
14.2	The Setre comb	299
14.3	The Ellestad stone	301
14.4	The Strøm whetstone	302
14.5	The Björketorp and Stentofte stones	303
14.5.1	Björketorp haidr- , Stentofte hid^er-	305

14.5.2	Björketorp, Stentofen -runo.....	306
14.5.3	Björketorp ronu, Stentofen ...no	307
14.5.4	Björketorp fal ^A hak, Stentofen fel ^A heka.....	307
14.5.5	Björketorp haid ^e ra, Stentofen hed ^e ra	308
14.5.6	Björketorp gin ^A -, Stentofen gin ^o -.....	308
14.5.7	Björketorp -runar, Stentofen -ronor.....	308
14.5.8	Björketorp, Stentofen ar ^A geu.....	309
14.5.9	Björketorp haer ^A m ^A -, Stentofen her ^A m ^A -.....	309
14.5.10	Björketorp -lausr, Stentofen -las	310
14.5.11	Björketorp uti	310
14.5.12	Björketorp, Stentofen ar	310
14.5.13	Björketorp, Stentofen wel ^A -.....	310
14.5.14	Björketorp -daude, Stentofen -dud	311
14.5.15	Björketorp sar, Stentofen sa	311
14.5.16	Björketorp, Stentofen þat.....	311
14.5.17	Björketorp b ^A rutr, Stentofen b ^A riutþ.....	312
14.5.18	The evidence from Björketorp and Stentofen	312
14.6	The Jelling stones 1 and 2	313

Chapter 15 The Weser runebones 315

15.1	Pieper's rehabilitation of the Weser inscriptions.....	315
15.2	Pieper's "imaginative" runological interpretation	317
15.3	Critique of Pieper's interpretation	320
15.4	A "skeptical runological" interpretation	325
15.4.1	Bone 4990.....	325
15.4.2	Bone 4988.....	325
15.4.3	Bone 4991.....	326
15.4.4	Complete text.....	327

Chapter 16 Old English digraphic spellings 329

16.1	Diphthongs or monophthongs?.....	329
16.2	The rise of syllabic variants.....	330
16.3	Pre-Anglian developments	333
16.4	West Saxon developments.....	338
16.5	The role of the runes	339

References.....	343
Index of inscriptions.....	367
Index of runic words	371
Index of names	375
Index of subjects	379