

Arms Control by Committee

Managing Negotiations with the Russians

George Bunn

STANFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

Stanford, California

1992

Contents

Abbreviations	xi
Introduction	i
1. Questions About the Negotiations	5
2. The Limited Test Ban Treaty and Two Missed Opportunities for a Comprehensive Ban	18
3. The Threshold Test Ban Treaty and Another Try at a Comprehensive Ban	49
4. The NPT: Banning Transfer of Nuclear Weapons Takes Two Decades	59
5. The NPT Finally Brings Widespread International Safeguards on Reactors	83
6. SALT I: The ABM Treaty and an Opportunity Lost to Ban MIRVs	106
7. SALT II Misses an Opportunity to Move On from SALT I	132
8. The INF Treaty: Negotiating from a Position of Strength?	142
9. In Washington, D.C.: The Decisionmaking Process	168
10. At the Table: The Negotiating Process	200
11. Too Many Cooks? The Impact of the Negotiating Committees	214
12. "Arms Control Without Agreements" and the CFE Treaty	235

13. Will the Process Change with the End of the Cold War?	255
Notes	271
Sources	315
Index	335