

Joseph Ramos

NEOCONSERVATIVE ECONOMICS IN THE
SOUTHERN CONE
OF LATIN AMERICA,
1973–1983

The Johns Hopkins University Press
Baltimore and London

Contents

List of Tables and Figures	xi
-----------------------------------	----

Preface	xv
----------------	----

1	The Origins and Approach of Neoconservatism in the Southern Cone	1
	Origins	1
	Frustration concerning Economic Performance	1
	The Emergence of Neoconservative Thinking	3
	The Immediate Crisis	4
	Approach	7
	Diagnosis	7
	Strategy	9
	Assumptions	10
2	Chile, 1973–1983: Policies and Principal Results	12
	The Initial Conditions	12
	Economic Policy and Its Results	13
	Phase I, September 1973 to June 1976	16
	Phase II, June 1976 to mid-1981	20
	Phase III, mid-1981 through 1983	22
3	Uruguay, 1974–1983: Policies and Principal Results	24
	The Initial Conditions	24
	Economic Policy and Its Results	28
	Phase I, July 1974 to October 1978	28

	Phase II, October 1978 through 1980	30
	Phase III, 1981 through 1983	32
4	Argentina, 1976–1983: Policies and Principal Results	34
	The Initial Conditions	35
	Economic Policy and Its Results	38
	Phase I, April 1976 to May 1978	39
	Phase II, May 1978 to Early 1981	40
	Phase III, Early 1981 through 1983	42
5	A Comparison of the Neoconservative Experiences	44
	Economic Growth	45
	The Overall Period	45
	The Period by Phase	49
	Price Stabilization	52
	The Balance of Payments and Foreign Debt	55
	The Distributive Impact	58
	Wages	58
	Employment	61
	Concentration of Income and Wealth	64
	Conclusions	68
6	Stabilization and Adjustment Policies	70
	Inflation as a Monetary Phenomenon	71
	Phase I: Monetarism for a Closed Economy	73
	Its Logic	73
	The Policies	75
	The Results	77
	Phase II: The Monetary Approach to the Balance of Payments	83
	Its Logic	83
	The Policies	85
	The Results	85
	Phase III: Forced Adjustment to External Disequilibrium	92
	Its Logic	92
	The Policy	93
	The Results	93

	A Critical Assessment	101
	The Costs of Stabilization Policies	102
	The Costs of Adjustment Programs	104
	Conclusions	106
7	Trade Liberalization	109
	Logic and Costs of Past Strategy	109
	The Neoconservative Diagnosis	112
	Phase I: Export Promotion	113
	The Measures	117
	The Results	121
	Phase II: Tariff Reduction	125
	The Measures	127
	The Results	129
	An Evaluation of Trade Liberalization	134
	Conclusions	136
8	Financial Liberalization	138
	The Neoconservative Diagnosis	138
	The Policies	140
	The Results	141
	Three Policy Questions	158
	Why Were Interest Rates So High?	158
	Why Were Financial Savings So High, National Savings and Investment So Low?	161
	Why Were Asset Prices So High?	163
	Consequences	166
	Conclusions and Theoretical Implications	169
9	In Closing	174
	The Neoconservative Approach	174
	Microeconomic Efficiency and Macroeconomic Inefficiency	175
	Errors in Policy Design and Implementation	177
	Errors in Conception of the Way the Economy Works	177
	Two Blinders	179

Distributive Biases 181

Were the Failures Due to the Model? 182

Conclusion 183

Bibliography 185

Index 193

Books in the Series 199