

THE
ISRAELI ECONOMY

Maturing through Crises

EDITED BY

Yoram Ben-Porath

HARVARD UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge, Massachusetts and London, England

1986

Contents

Introduction	1
Yoram Ben-Porath
I. Maturing: Growth and Structural Change	25
1. The Entwined Growth of Population and Product, 1922–1982	27
Yoram Ben-Porath
2. Economic Growth and Structural Change: An International Perspective	42
Moshe Syrquin
3. The Slowdown of Economic Growth: A Passing Phase or the End of the Big Spurt?	75
Jacob Metzger
4. Investment Patterns	101
Joram Mayshar
5. Changes in the Industrial Structure	119
Ruth Klinov
6. Educational Structure and Wage Differentials of the Labor Force in the 1970s	137
Shmuel Amir
7. Diversity in Population and in the Labor Force	153
Yoram Ben-Porath
II. The Public Sector: Competing Goals	171
8. Defense and the Economy	173
Eitan Berglas

9. Public Spending on Civilian Services Gur Ofer	192
10. The Development of the Transfer System and the Redistribution of Income Yehuda Geva and Jack Habib	209
11. Taxes and Transfers in an Inflationary Decade Eitan Berglas	221
III. Crises in an Open Economy 239
12. Perspectives on the Balance of Payments Nadav Halevi	241
13. The Energy Sector in the 1960s and 1970s Haim Barkai	264
14. External Shocks and Domestic Response: Macroeconomic Performance, 1965–1982 Michael Bruno	276
15. Indexation in the Labor Market Ephraim Kleiman	302
16. Accelerating Inflation and Balance-of-Payments Crises, 1973–1984 Nissan Liviatan and Sylvia Piterman	320
17. The Inflationary Process: Shocks and Accommodation Michael Bruno and Stanley Fischer	347
References	375
Notes	390
Acknowledgments	414
Contributors	417
Index	419