

Marx's Social Critique of Culture

LOUIS DUPRÉ

Yale University Press
New Haven and London

Contents

Foreword, vii

Note on Sources, ix

Introduction: The Reintegration of Culture, 1

1 Cultural and Social Alienation, 15

The Hegelian Origins of Marx's Critique, 15

The Proper Content of the Social and Its Falsification, 24

Grundrisse: Economy as Alienation, 34

Capital: Alienation as Economic Contradiction, 43

A Provisional Conclusion, 51

2 Culture as Historical Process, 58

The New Meaning of Progress, 58

The Rationality of Praxis, 65

Historical Reason, 72

Base and Superstructure, 83

Prehistory and the End of History, 98

3 The Structural Dialectic, 109

Dialectic from Hegel to Marx, 109

The Dialectic of Economic Concepts, 118

The Historical Principle Radicalized: Capital, 126

Dialectical Contradiction Redefined, 132

The Ambiguous Legacy: The Three Laws of Dialectic, 145

4 Economics as Sociocultural Activity, 165

The Social Assumption of the Classical Economists, 165

The Classical Theory of Value, 169

Marx's Critique of the Concept of Value, 181

The Economic and the Social, 198
A Critical Conclusion, 209
5 The Uses of Ideology, 216
Marx's Concept of Ideology, 216
From Ideology to Superstructure, 229
Marxist Developments of the Critique of Ideology, 238
The Mediation of Psychology, 248
Art and the Aesthetic Dimension of Life, 258
Conclusion: Culture Reintegrated through Praxis, 276
Index, 289