

FEMINIST
INTERPRETATIONS
OF
BENEDICT SPINOZA

EDITED BY MOIRA GATENS

THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE UNIVERSITY PRESS
UNIVERSITY PARK, PENNSYLVANIA

Contents

Prefacé Nancy Tuana	vii
Acknowledgments	xi
List of Abbreviations and Notes on Translations	xiii
Introduction: Through Spinoza's "Looking Glass" Moira Gatens	1
1 Dominance and Difference: A Spinozistic Alternative to the Distinction Between "Sex" and "Gender" Genevieve Lloyd	29
2 Autonomy and the Relational Individual: Spinoza and Feminism Aurelia Armstrong	43
3 Spinoza on the Pathos of Idolatrous Love and the Hilarity of True Love Amelie Rorty	65
4 Spinoza and Sexuality Alexandre Matheron	87
5 Reason, Sexuality, and the Self in Spinoza David West	107
6 What Spinoza Can Teach Us About Embodying and Naturalizing Ethics Heidi Morrison Ravven	125

7	Adam and the Serpent: Everyman and the Imagination Paola Grassi	145
8	The Envelope: A Reading of Spinoza's Ethics , "Of God" Luce Irigaray	155
9	Re-reading Irigaray's Spinoza Sarah Donovan	165
10	The Politics of the Imagination Moira Gatens	189
11	Law and Sovereignty in Spinoza's Politics Susan James	211
	Further Reading	229
	List of Contributors	231
	Index	233