

---

JEWES, MEDICINE, AND MEDIEVAL SOCIETY

---

Joseph Shatzmiller

---

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA PRESS
Berkeley Los Angeles London

---

Contents

---

Preface vii

Introduction ix

1 Jews and the Medicalization of Society in the Middle Ages 1

The Medicalization of Society, 1250–1450:

The Growing Need for Doctors 2

Church Opposition to the Clerical Practice of Medicine 8

The Opening: The Entry of Jews into the Profession 10

2 The Making of the Jewish Doctor 14

Supervision of the Medical Profession and Licensing Procedures 14

Private Medical Education: The Masters and the Students 22

Jewish Students in the Faculties of Medicine 27

3 The Hebrew Medical Library 36

Required Bibliography: Examinations 36

Hebrew: The Language of Medical Instruction 38

The Economics of Translation 42

Building the Hebrew Medical Library: Strategy and Timing 48

4	Reputation: Brilliant Medical Careers	56
	Doctors in Princely Courts	57
	A Successful Medical Dynasty: The Abenardut	60
	Luminaries: Jewish Doctors of International Repute	64
	Royal Favors Bestowed on Doctors	70
5	Rejection: Apprehensions about Jewish Doctors	78
	Failures, Accidents, Incompetence	78
	Suspicious	85
	Ecclesiastical and Secular Legislation against Jewish Doctors	90
	The Ineffectiveness of Legislation	93
6	Jewish Doctors in the Medieval City: Numbers and Status	100
	Doctors as Part of the Social Scenery: Literary Evidence	100
	The Number of Jewish and Non-Jewish Doctors	104
	Women in the Medical Profession	108
	Doctors Hired by Municipalities	112
7	Private Practice: Doctors and Patients in Daily Encounters	119
	Was There a "Mystique" about Jewish Doctors?	120
	Jewish Patients and Christian Doctors	121
	Patients, Doctors, and the Rule of the Law	124
	Master Bonafos: Surgeon in Manosque before 1348	131
	Other Economic Activities	135
	Conclusion	140
	Notes	143
	Select Bibliography	211
	Index	235