

Marx and Non- Equilibrium Economics

Editors

Alan Freeman

University of Greenwich

Guglielmo Carchedi

University of Amsterdam

Edward Elgar

Cheltenham, UK • Brookfield, US

Contents

Foreword	vii
Alan Freeman and Guglielmo Carchedi
Introduction	xxi
1 The psychopathology of Walrasian Marxism	1
Alan Freeman
2 One system or two? The transformation of values into prices of production versus the transformation problem	29
Ted McGlone and Andrew Kliman
3 The transformation of values into prices of production: a different reading of Marx's text	49
Alejandro Ramos-Martínez and Adolfo Rodríguez-Herrera
4 Money, the postulates of invariance and the transformation of Marx into Ricardo	77
Adolfo Rodríguez-Herrera
5 Time, money, equilibrium: methodology and the labour theory of the profit rate	95
Michele I. Naples
6 The value of money, the value of labour power and the net product: an appraisal of the 'New Approach' to the transformation problem	116
Alfredo Saad-Filho
7 The transformation procedure: a non-equilibrium approach	136
Guglielmo Carchedi and Werner de Haan
8 Non-equilibrium market prices	164
Guglielmo Carchedi
9 Demand, supply and market prices	183
Paolo Giussani
10 A value-theoretic critique of the Okishio theorem	206
Andrew Kliman
11 Price, value and profit – a continuous, general, treatment	225
Alan Freeman
Bibliography	280
Index	291