

UNARMED AGAINST HITLER

Civilian Resistance in Europe, 1939-1943

JACQUES SEMELIN

Translated by Suzan Husserl-Kapit

Foreword by Stanley Hoffmann

PRAEGER

Westport, Connecticut
London

Contents

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	ix
FOREWORD by Stanley Hoffmann	xi
INTRODUCTION: A NEW LOOK AT THE "RESISTANCE"	1
1. THE MAIN TRAITS OF THE NAZI OCCUPATION IN EUROPE	5
Fundamental Objectives	6
Principal Forms of Domination	8
Political Expressions of Collaboration	11
Reasons for State Collaboration: A Comparison between Denmark and France	14
2. WHICH RESISTANCE?	23
Which History of the Resistance?	25
The Field of Civilian Resistance	27
3. THE COMPLEXITIES OF NONCOOPERATION	33
The Complexity of Behaviors Toward the Occupying Forces	34
The Progressive Radicalization of Relations between the Occupying Forces and the Occupied Population	39
4. THE QUESTION OF LEGITIMACY	47
Norway's Steadfastness	50

France's Alienation	54
The Netherlands' Contradictions	57
Two Political Rationales for Resistance	60
5. ELEMENTS OF SOCIAL COHESION	63
Internal Factors	65
External Factors	77
Laws of Reactivity	84
6. THE ROLE OF OPINION	89
From Opinion to Resistance	91
The Public Expression of Resisting Opinion	95
The Political Walls of Civil Society	105
The Theory of the Three Circles	106
7. CIVILIAN RESISTANCE AGAINST REPRESSION	111
Provoked Repression	112
Restrained Repression	117
Other Factors of Vulnerability	122
8. CIVILIAN RESISTANCE TO THE GENOCIDE	129
The Strategy of Victimization	131
The Screen of State	137
The Screen of Opinion	141
The Screen of Social Networks	148
The Terminal Stage of Cancer	154
Can Genocide Be Prevented?	156
9. WHICH ROLE FOR WHICH RESULTS?	161
Surviving in an Independent Society	162
Direct, Indirect, and Dissuasive Effectiveness	168
CONCLUSION: THE NEW FIELD OF CIVILIAN-BASED DEFENSE STRATEGIES	177
APPENDIX: ELEMENTS OF METHODOLOGY	185
LIST OF EXAMPLES STUDIED	189
INDEX	191