
*The Social Origins of Violence in Uganda,
1964–1985*

A. B. K. KASOZI

With the assistance and collaboration of Nakanyike Musisi and
James Mukooza Sejjengo

McGill-Queen's University Press
Montreal & Kingston • London • Buffalo

Contents

Tables, Figures, and Maps / ix

Abbreviations and Glossary / xi

Acknowledgments / xiii

Illustrations / xvi

Introduction / 3

PART ONE A LEGACY OF VIOLENCE

- 1 Precolonial and Colonial Uganda / 17
- 2 Inequality and Violence in Uganda / 30

PART TWO FROM NAKULABYE TO NAMUGONGO

- 3 From a Negotiated to an Imposed
Constitution, 1962–66 / 59
- 4 From a Civilian to a Military Dictatorship,
1966–71 / 88
- 5 Idi Amin and the Politics of Survival,
1971–79 / 104
- 6 Weak Governments and Social Chaos,
1979–85 / 128
- 7 Four and One-Half Years of Brute
Violence, 1980–85 / 145
- 8 Civil War, 1981–85 / 164

viii Contents

- 9 Conclusion / 193
Epilogue / 209

APPENDICES

- 1 The Language Debate / 227
- 2 Buwunga Subcounty: A Case Study of the Impact of Violence on a Local Community / 235
- 3 Some of the Massacres under the Military Commission and Obote's Regime, 1980-84 / 240
- 4 Some of the Victims of Amin's Years of Terror, 1971-79 / 249
- 5 A Few of Those Reported Killed during Obote's Second Regime, 1981-85 / 254
- 6 Some of the Detainees at Luzira Gazetted by Ugandan Authorities / 273
- 7 Memorandum of Uganda's Religious Leaders to Obote, August 1981 / 275
- 8 Letter of the Leader of the Opposition to the President of Atrocities / 279
- 9 Memorandum from the Chairman of the National Resistance Movement to the Commonwealth Prime Ministers and Heads of Government, 30 September to 7 October 1981 / 282
- 10 Public Statement by Uganda's Ambassador to the Scandinavian Countries, Ibrahim Mukiibil / 285
- Notes / 289
- Bibliography / 319
- Index / 339