

The Making of a Periphery

Economic Development and Cultural Encounters in Southern Tanzania

Edited by
Pekka Seppälä and Bertha Koda

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	5
Introduction	7
Part I. The History of Encounters
J.A.R. Wembah-Rashid
Is culture in south-eastern Tanzania development-unfriendly? . . .	39
S. Mesaki and J. Mwankusye
The saga of the Lindi–Kibiti road: Political ramifications	58
Timo Voipio
Poverty reduction in Mtwara–Lindi 1972–1995. A history of paradigm shifts	75
Pekka Seppälä
The recovery of cashew production in southern Tanzania	118
Part II. Women, Men and Development
Bernadeta Killian
Villagers' perception of poverty: Kineng'ene village, Lindi district	139
Marja-Liisa Swantz
Notes on research on women and their strategies for sustained livelihood in southern Tanzania	157
Bertha Koda
Changing land tenure systems in the contemporary matrilineal social system: The gendered dimension	195

E.P. Mihanjo and N.N. Luanda The south-east economic backwater and the urban floating Wamachinga	222
--	-----

Pekka Seppälä The informal sector in Lindi district	233
---	-----

Part III. Perceptions of Culture and Local Knowledge

A.A. Nangumbi Mystical forces and social relations in Makonde oral literature . . .	265
---	-----

Tore Saetersdal Makonde carvings: Cultural and symbolic aspects	285
---	-----

Juhani Koponen The role of knowledge(s) in the making of Mtwara and Lindi . . .	309
---	-----

Juhani Koponen Select bibliography on rural Mtwara and Lindi	325
--	-----

About the authors	340
-----------------------------	-----

Index	341
-----------------	-----