
University Capacity in Eastern & Southern African Countries

JAMES CURREY
LONDON

HEINEMANN
PORTSMOUTH N.H.

Eastern & Southern African Universities
Research Programme · Dar es Salaam
(ESAURP)

Contents

List of Tables	vii
List of Figures	ix
List of Charts	x
Acknowledgements	xi
Preface	xiii
Overview of the book	xvii

1

Description of the Study Methodology	1
Purpose of the study	1
Efforts to measure demand for higher education	1
Conceptual model	4
Information requirements	5
Information gathering and analysis	9

2

The Role of the University in Society	14
The teaching function of the university	14
The research function of the university	16
The public service function of the university	18
Concluding remarks	21

3

The History & Organization of Universities in Eastern & Southern African Countries	22
History	24
Organization	25
Decision-making in the university	30
General administrative and personnel structure	34
Academic faculties and departments	38
The faculties of the Eastern and Southern African universities	41
Staff association and students unions	46

4

Resources	51
Financial resources	51
Manpower resources	62
Physical resources	76

5

Programme Quality	89
The selection of students	89
Programmes of study	90
Assessment of student progress	93
The student loss rate	97
The research environment	100

6

Student & Research Outputs	112
Student output	112
Research output	119

7

Summary & Recommendations	155
Introduction	155
Summary of results and conclusions	158
Recommendations	166
Notes	173

Appendixes