

Surveys in Monetary Economics

Volume 2: Financial Markets and Institutions

Edited by Christopher J. Green and David T. Llewellyn

On Behalf of the Money Study Group

BLACKWELL
Oxford UK & Cambridge USA

Contents

Notes on Contributors	vii
Foreword	xi
David Laidler, Robert Nobay and Michael Parkin
Preface to Volume 2	xv
1 The Flow of Funds: Construction and Uses	1
David G. Barr and Keith Cuthbertson
1.1 Introduction	1
1.2 Economic Models and the Flow of Funds	2
1.3 Methodological Issues and Data Construction	8
1.4 Sectoral Changes in Asset Holdings	10
1.5 Summary	34
2 The Money Supply Process	44
David Cobham
2.1 The State of the Art in the Late 1960s/Early 1970s	45
2.2 The Critique of Multiplier Analysis	49
2.3 Credit Counterpart Studies	54
2.4 The Monetary Base Control Debate	63
2.5 The Experience of Attempted Monetary Control in the 1970s and 1980s	67
2.6 Conclusions	70
3 Financial Innovation in Theory and Practice	79
David H. Gowland

iv Contents

3.1	Introduction	79
3.2	Three Myths	83
3.3	Causes of Financial Innovation	86
3.4	Nature of Financial Innovation	92
3.5	Effects of Financial Innovation	100
3.6	Issues in Innovation	107
4	Theory and Practice of the Banking Firm	116
	Mervyn K. Lewis
4.1	Introduction	116
4.2	The Existence Question	119
4.3	Banks as Information Producers	124
4.4	Diversification of Banking Activities	131
4.5	Banks as Liquidity Insurers	135
4.6	Wholesale Banking	142
4.7	Off-balance-sheet Banking	148
4.8	Conclusion	158
5	Financial Regulation in the UK: Deregulation or Reregulation?	166
	Maximilian J.B. Hall
5.1	The Rationale of Financial Regulation	167
5.2	Principles of Financial Regulation	174
5.3	Styles of Financial Regulation in the UK	174
5.4	The Recent Programme of Reform	178
5.5	Summary and Concluding Comments	197
6	Structural Change in the British Financial System	210
	David T. Llewellyn
6.1	General Framework	211
6.2	Structural Change in the British Financial System	221
6.3	An Assessment	244
7	The London Financial Markets	260
	Richard Harrington
7.1	Introduction	260
7.2	Financial Markets in Context	261
7.3	The Size of the Markets	266
7.4	The Traditional Money Market: Call Loans and Sterling Bills	267
7.5	Other Markets in Short-term Funds	271
7.6	Bond Markets	284
7.7	Financial Futures, Options and Forward Rate Agreements	291

7.8	The Foreign Exchange Market	302
7.9	Concluding Comments	307
Index		313