

Looking Back Reaching Forward

Reflections on the Truth and Reconciliation
Commission of South Africa

Charles Villa-Vicencio
and
Wilhelm Verwoerd

University of Cape Town Press
CAPE TOWN

Zed Books Ltd
LONDON

Contents

Acknowledgements	vi
List of Contributors	vii
Foreword
Richard Goldstone	viii
Introduction
Charles Villa-Vicencio and Wilhelm Verwoerd	xiv

SECTION 1

The historical context and origins of the Commission

1 The struggle for human rights: from the UN Declaration of Human Rights to the present
Dumisa Ntsebeza	2
2 The historical context, legal origins and philosophical foundation of the South African Truth and Reconciliation Commission
Johnny de Lange	14
3 Same species, different animal: how South Africa compares to truth commissions worldwide
Priscilla Hayner	32
4 Justice without punishment: guaranteeing human rights in transitional societies
Paul van Zyl	42

SECTION 2

The philosophical framework of the Commission

Can truth commissions be justified?

5 The moral justification of truth commissions
Rajeev Bhargava	60
6 Restorative justice: dealing with the past differently
Charles Villa-Vicencio	68

Making moral judgements

7 Making moral judgements
Mary Burton	77
8 When the assassin cries foul: the modern Just War doctrine
Kader Asmal, Louise Asmal and Ronald Suresh Roberts	86

Moral expectations and legal challenges

- 9 The law and struggle: the same, but different
Hugh Corder 99
- 10 Combating myth and building reality
Colleen Scott 107

Religious and moral perspectives

- 11 Truth and reconciliation as performance: spectres of Eucharistic redemption
Ebrahim Moosa 113
- 12 The baruti versus the lawyers: the role of religion in the TRC process
Piet Meiring 123

SECTION 3

What the Commission sought to achieve

The Truth

- 13 Historical truth: something to fight for
Janet Cherry 134
- 14 Truth as a trigger for transformation: from apartheid injustice to transformational justice
Willie Esterhuysen 144

A space for victims to speak and the right of perpetrators to be heard

- 15 Towards the recognition of our past injustices
Wilhelm Verwoerd 155
- 16 Where healing begins
Yazir Henry 166

Amnesty

- 17 Justice and amnesty
Ronald Slye 174
- 18 Amnesty: the burden of victims
Richard Lyster 184
- 19 Amnesty and denial
Nkosinathi Biko 193

Coexistence, healing and reconciliation

- 20 Getting on with life: a move towards reconciliation
Charles Villa-Vicencio 199

21 Reconciliation: a call to action
Mxolisi Mgxashe	210
Understanding perpetrators
22 What makes a perpetrator? An attempt to understand
Don Foster	219
23 A personal encounter with perpetrators
Ginn Fourie	230
Reparation and the healing of victims
24 Reparation delayed is healing retarded
Wendy Orr	239
25 Insufficient healing and reparation
Nomfundo Walaza	250

SECTION 4

After the Commission

26 An opportunity for peace
Njongonkulu Ndungane	258
27 Dealing with systematic economic injustice
Sampie Terreblanche	265
28 National reconciliation: holy grail or secular pact?
Jakes Gerwel	277
Endnotes	287
Appendix	304
Index	311