

Contents

Preface	vii
1 The state, urban policy and the inner-city crisis	1
2 Capital accumulation and urban development in post-war Britain	34
3 Post-war reconstruction, the long boom and the denial of planning	62
4 Economic decline, modernization and the reform of planning	95
5 Corporatism, the New Right and the urban crisis	126
6 Social conflict, the local state and the future of the cities	162
Postscript	183
Bibliography	185
Index	195