Contents

Contents of Part A	vii
Contributors	ix
Preface	xi
8. Chemical Oceanography	407
E. P. Jones, David M. Nelson, and Paul Treguer
I. Introduction	407
II. The Arctic Ocean	408
III. The Southern Ocean	432
References	469
9. Polar Phytoplankton	477
Walker O. Smith, Jr. and Egil Sakshaug
I. Introduction	477
II. Pelagic Production	480
III. Processes Affecting Phytoplankton Distribution	511
IV. Ice-Algal Production	512
V. Coupling of Ice Community with Water Column	515
VI. Conclusions	516
References	517
10. Polar Zooplankton	527
Sharon L. Smith and Sigrid B. Schnack-Schiel
I. Introduction	527
II. The Arctic	528
III. The Antarctic	554
IV. Concluding Remarks	579
References	581
11. The Upper Trophic Levels in Polar Marine Ecosystems	599
David G. Ainley and Douglas P. DeMaster
I. Introduction	599
II. The Arctic and Antarctic Environments	600

III. Polar Communities and Food Webs	602
IV. Factors That Concentrate Upper-Level Trophic Interactions in Polar Waters	609
V. Competitive Interactions	620
VI. Summary and Future Directions	623
References	625
12. Polar Benthos	631
Paul K. Dayton
I. Introduction	632
II. On Early Exploration and Collections	634
III. Origin, Evolution, and Historical Background of Arctic Habitats and Species	635
IV. Arctic Patterns and Processes	641
V. Arctic Macroalgae	651
VI. Origin, Evolution, and Historical Background of Antarctic Habitats and Species	653
VII. Antarctic Patterns and Processes	658
VIII. Antarctic Benthic Macroalgae	669
IX. Discussion	672
References	676
13. Particle Fluxes and Modern Sedimentation in the Polar Oceans	687
Susumu Honjo
I. Introduction	688
II. Ocean Particles and Mechanisms of Settling	691
III. Methods of Particle Flux Studies in the Polar Oceans: Field Experiments	694
IV. Arctic Oceans and Their Marginal Seas: Pelagic Particle Fluxes	697
V. Antarctic Oceans: Pelagic Particle Fluxes	707
VI. Comparison of Pelagic Fluxes in the Arctic and Antarctic Oceans	715
VII. Processes of Neritic Sedimentation in the Polar Oceans	722
VIII. Summary and Conclusions	732
References	734
Index	741

Contents of Part A

Physical Science

- 1. Meteorology
Robert A. Brown
- 2. Sea Ice in the Polar Regions
Anthony J. Gow and Walter B. Tucker III
- 3. Remote Sensing of the Polar Oceans
Robert A. Shuchman and Robert G. Onstott
- 4. Large-Scale Physical Oceanography of Polar Oceans
Eddy C. Carmack
- 5. Mesoscale Phenomena in the Polar Oceans
Robin D. Muench
- 6. Small-Scale Processes
Miles G. McPhee
- 7. Models and Their Applications to Polar Oceanography
Sirpa Häkkinen
