

ARAB WOMEN
NOVELISTS

The Formative Years and Beyond

JOSEPH T. ZEIDAN

STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK PRESS

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
Transliteration System	xi
Introduction	1
1. Women in Arab Society: A Historical Perspective	9
2. The Pioneering Generation	41
Literary Societies	45
Journals	46
The Salons	50
Women as Poets	55
Other Important Creative Writers	64
The Generation Between World Wars	78
Destiny and Demons: Conventional Devices	80
Social Handicaps	81
Development of a Female Literary Culture	85
Conclusion	88
3. The Quest for Personal Identity	93
Amīnah al-Sa'īd: New Beginnings	93
Laylā Ba'labakkī's Rebellion: Two Novels	96
Colette al-Khūrī: Unconvincing Developments	104
Laylā 'Usayrān: More Experiments	111
Emily Naṣrallāh: Village Novelist	119
	vii

viii Contents

Nawāl al-Sa'dāwī: Militant Fiction	124
Discussion: Themes, Patterns, and Problems	139
4. The Quest for National Identity	157
Al-Sa'dāwī: A Link Between Personal and National identity	158
Laṭīfah al-Zayyāt: The Open Door	165
The Palestinian Question and the Novel	170
The Achievement of Saḥar Khalīfah	178
Liyānah Badr: A Compass for the Sunflower	186
The Lebanese Dimension: Ghādah al-Sammān	191
Hanān al-Shaykh and The Story of Zahra	205
Other Novelists and the Civil War	217
Conclusion	226
5. Conclusions	231
Appendices	237
Appendix 1: Women's Journals in Egypt	238
Appendix 2: Women's Journals in Lebanon	242
Appendix 3: Women's Journals in Iraq	244
Appendix 4: Women's Journals in Syria	246
Appendix 5: Women's Journals in the Rest of the Arab World and Abroad	247
Appendix 6: Novels Written by Arab Women (1887–1993)	249
Notes	271
References	321
Index	351