

READERS AND LABYRINTHS

Detective Fiction in Borges, Bustos Domecq, and Eco

Jorge Hernández Martín

GARLAND PUBLISHING, INC.
New York & London / 1995

Contents

Preface	ix
Foreword	xi

Part One:

THE OBLIGATION TO INVENT: READERS, WRITERS, AND THE DETECTORY SCHEMA

A Model of Competence: The Reader That Detective Fiction Has Made	3
The Detectory Schema: The Case against Oedipus Wrecks	13
In Poe's Image: The Reader That Poe Has Created	25
The Labyrinthine Text: The Fiction That the Reader Makes	37

Part Two:

BORGES AND THE LABYRINTHS OF THE DETECTIVE STORY

Borges, Detective Story Reader	49
Treading the Labyrinth: Borges and the Detectory Reader	57
The Reading Self: The Golem Meets His Maker	67
"Death and the Compass": Lönnrot's Last Case?	77

Part Three:

THE READERS WRITE: BUSTOS DOMECQ
AND SIX PROBLEMS FOR DON ISIDRO PARODI

Bioy Casares and Borges: The Making of "Biorges"	99
A Compendium of Heresies: Six Problems for Don Isidro Parodi	109
The Mystified Reader: "The Twelve Figures of the World"	119
"Honorio Bustos Domecq, What Is an Author?"	131

Part Four:

THE TEXT AS WEB: A CASE FOR CONJECTURE IN
THE NAME OF THE ROSE

The Narrative Mask: Preface on Eco's Preface	145
Detectory Method and the Mystery of the Rose	151
Jorge of Burgos: Eco's Minotaur	163
Labyrinths and the Detectory Schema	179
The Drive toward Resolution: A Case for Conjecture	187
Afterword	199
Bibliography	207
Author Index	229