

LOCAL HISTORY, TRANSNATIONAL MEMORY
IN THE ROMANIAN HOLOCAUST

EDITED BY

VALENTINA GLAJAR
AND JEANINE TEODORESCU

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi

Introduction Valentina Glajar	1
---	---

Part I Local History, Bearing Witness

One	The Perception of the Holocaust in Historiography and in the Romanian Media Alexandru Florian	19
Two	The Iași Pogrom in Curzio Malaparte's Kaputt : Between History and Fiction Mihai Dinu Gheorghiu	47
Three	The Cernăuți Ghetto, the Deportations, and the Decent Mayor Marianne Hirsch and Leo Spitzer	57
Four	"Bottles in the Sea": Letters of Deported Jews in Moghilev (Transnistria), November–December 1941 Florence Heymann	77
Five	Survival and Memory: Arnold Daghani's Verbal and Visual Diaries Deborah Schultz	91
Six	Mihail Sebastian and Mircea Eliade: Chronicle of a Broken Friendship Andrei Oișteanu	119

Part II Transnational Memory in Literature and Film

Seven	Paul Celan's Aesthetics of Transnational Remembrance Iulia-Karin Patrut	137
-------	---	-----

VIII / CONTENTS

Eight	Homescaping of Childhood: Aharon Appelfeld's Life Stories of Czernowitz Emily Miller Budick	157
Nine	Norman Manea: "I am not a Writer of the Holocaust" Jeanine Teodorescu	175
Ten	Elie Wiesel's Night : The Death of Hope and Romania's Problematic Moral Stand in Relation to the Holocaust Domnica Radulescu	195
Eleven	" The People of Israel Lives! " Performing the Shoah on Post-War Bucharest's Yiddish Stages Corina L. Petrescu	209
Twelve	Framing the Silence: The Romanian Jewish and Romani Holocaust in Filmic Representations Valentina Glajar	225
	Selected Bibliography	251
	List of Contributors	259
	Index	263