

Continuity and Change in Contemporary Europe

Clive H. Church

Gisela Hendriks

University of Kent at Canterbury, UK

Edward Elgar

Aldershot, UK • Brookfield, US

Contents

Illustrations	vii
Abbreviations	ix
Preface	xiii
Introduction	xv

PART I THE POST-WAR BACKGROUND

Overview	3
1 The economic and social background: West and East	5
2 The states of Western Europe after the war	20
3 The development of European integration	37
4 East–West relations in Europe	50
5 Adaption and integration in Eastern Europe	63

PART II NEW DIRECTIONS IN THE 1980s

Overview	79
6 Politics and policy in Western Europe	81
7 The ‘relaunching’ of the European Community	98
8 The politics of glasnost and perestroika	113
9 Disarmament, détente and beyond	127
10 The revolutions in Eastern Europe	140

PART III THE CHALLENGES OF THE 1990s

Overview	159
11 Developing the European Community	161
12 Political and social problems in Western Europe	177
13 The crisis of transition in central and Eastern Europe	194
14 Post-Cold War challenges – the search for a new security order	217
15 Inner-European problems	236

Conclusions	256
A guide to further reading	259
Glossary	270
Index	279