Preface to the Second Edition	xvii
Introduction and Overview	3
1 Overview of the Book	4
2 Some Methodological Issues	10
1 Scope of Development Macroeconomics	13
1 Monetarism, Structuralism, and Developing Nations	15
2 Economic Structure and Macroeconomics	18
2.1 Openness to Trade in Commodities and Assets	19
2.2 Exchange Rate Management	25
2.3 Domestic Financial Markets	26
2.4 The Government Budget	28
2.5 Aggregate Supply and the Labor Market	32
2.6 Stability of Policy Regimes	36
2.7 Macroeconomic Volatility	37
3 Some Special Topics	38
PART I: MACROECONOMIC RELATIONSHIPS AND MARKET STRUCTURE	43
2 Aggregate Accounts, Production, and Market Structure	45
1 A General Accounting Framework	46
1.1 The Nonfinancial Private Sector	46
1.2 The Public Sector	48
1.2.1 The Nonfinancial Public Sector	48
1.2.2 The Central Bank	48
1.2.3 The Consolidated Public Sector	49
1.3 The Commercial Banking System	50
1.4 Aggregate Relationships	51
2 Production Structure in an Open Economy	52
2.1 The Mundell–Fleming Model	52
2.2 The “Dependent Economy” Model	56
2.3 A Model with Three Goods	60
3 The Structure of Labor Markets	63
3.1 Functioning of Labor Markets	64
3.2 Output and Unemployment	65
3.3 Indexation and Wage Rigidity	66
3.4 Labor Market Segmentation	71

4	Informal Financial Markets	76
4.1	Informal Loan Markets	76
4.2	Parallel Markets for Foreign Exchange	78
3	Behavioral Functions	86
1	Consumption and Saving	86
1.1	Consumption Smoothing	90
1.2	Length of Planning Horizon and Liquidity Constraints	92
1.3	Effects of Interest Rate Changes on Savings	93
1.4	Public and Private Consumption	95
2	Private Investment	95
2.1	Specification Issues	96
2.2	Determinants of Private Investment: The Evidence	99
3	The Demand for Money	102
3.1	Conventional Money Demand Models	103
3.2	Currency Substitution and the Demand for Money	105
3.2.1	Domestic- and Foreign-Currency Deposits	106
3.2.2	Currency Substitution: The Evidence	109
4	Aggregate Supply Functions	111
4.1	Cross-Regime Tests	113
4.2	Within-Regime Tests	114
4.3	An Assessment of the Evidence	117
	Appendix: Uncertainty, Irreversibility, and Investment: A Simple Example	120
	PART II: SHORT-RUN MACROECONOMIC POLICIES	123
4	Sources of Macroeconomic Fluctuations	125
1	The Data	126
2	Detrending Techniques	128
2.1	The Hodrick–Prescott Filter	129
2.2	The Band-Pass Filter	130
2.3	The Nonparametric Method	130
3	Assessing Macroeconomic Fluctuations	131
4	Summary of the Findings	133
5	Fiscal Deficits, Public Solvency, and the Macroeconomy	136
1	The Government Budget Constraint	137
1.1	The Consolidated Budget Constraint	137
1.2	The Measurement of Fiscal Deficits	141
1.3	Seigniorage and Inflationary Finance	143

1.3.1	The Optimal Inflation Tax	146
1.3.2	Collection Lags and the Olivera–Tanzi Effect	148
1.3.3	Collection Costs and Tax System Efficiency	153
2	Policy Consistency and the Solvency Constraint	154
2.1	The Intertemporal Solvency Constraint	155
2.2	Financing Constraints and Policy Consistency	158
3	Macroeconomic Effects of Fiscal Deficits	159
3.1	Ricardian Equivalence	160
3.2	Deficits, Inflation, and the “Tight Money” Paradox	161
3.2.1	The Analytical Framework	165
3.2.2	Constant Primary Deficit	167
3.2.3	Constant Conventional Deficit	169
3.3	Deficits, Real Interest Rates, and Crowding Out	173
3.3.1	Expectations, Deficits, and Real Interest Rates	174
3.3.2	Deficits, Investment, and Crowding Out	181
3.4	Deficits, the Current Account, and the Real Exchange Rate	182
	Appendix: Fiscal Effects of Privatization	186
6	Financial Markets, Capital Mobility, and Monetary Policy	189
1	Financial Repression: Macroeconomic Effects	190
2	Financial Repression, the Inflation Tax, and Capital Controls	192
2.1	Financial Repression and Inflationary Finance	192
2.2	A General Public-Finance Approach	196
3	Capital Mobility: Empirical Evidence	198
3.1	The Magnitude of Gross Flows	199
3.2	Tests of Interest Parity Conditions	200
3.3	Tests of Monetary Autonomy	204
3.4	Saving–Investment Correlations	205
3.5	Summary	206
4	Models of Informal Credit and Foreign Exchange Markets	207
4.1	Models of Informal Credit Markets	207
4.1.1	Stagflationary Effects of Monetary Policy	207
4.1.2	Interest Rate Policy and Output	208
4.2	Models of Informal Currency Markets	214
4.2.1	Illegal Trade and Parallel Markets	214
4.2.2	Portfolio and Currency Substitution Models	217
5	Monetary Policy with Informal Financial Markets	221
5.1	The Analytical Framework	222
5.2	Changes in Monetary Policy Instruments	226

5.2.1	Credit Expansion	227
5.2.2	Changes in the Administered Interest Rate	228
5.2.3	Change in the Required Reserve Ratio	229
5.2.4	Intervention in the Parallel Foreign Exchange Market	229
6	A Simulation Model with Informal Financial Markets	230
6.1	Structure of the Model	230
6.1.1	Aggregate Supply	231
6.1.2	Aggregate Demand and Disposable Income	233
6.1.3	Asset Accumulation and Financial Wealth	234
6.1.4	The Current Account and the Balance of Payments	235
6.1.5	The Banking System	236
6.1.6	Fiscal Deficits and Domestic Credit	237
6.1.7	Calibration of the Model	238
6.2	Effects of Stabilization Policies	238
6.2.1	Government Spending on Home Goods	239
6.2.2	Central Bank Credit to Commercial Banks	240
6.2.3	Increase in Lending Rates	241
6.2.4	Devaluation of the Official Exchange Rate	242
— 7	Exchange-Rate Regimes: Evidence and Credibility Aspects	246
1	Evidence on Exchange-Rate Regimes	246
2	Credibility and Exchange-Rate Management	251
2.1	Time Inconsistency and Exchange-Rate Policy	253
2.2	Credibility of a Fixed Exchange Rate	258
2.3	Reputation, Signaling, and Exchange-Rate Commitment	259
2.4	Credibility Effects of Monetary Unions	262
3	Exchange Rate Bands	266
3.1	Rationale for Exchange Rate Bands	266
3.2	Bands and Monetary Policy Credibility	268
3.3	Experience with Exchange Rate Bands	269
3.3.1	Central Parity	270
3.3.2	Band Width	276
3.3.3	Intramarginal Intervention	278
3.4	Lessons from Experience	278
	Appendix: Krugman's Target Zone Model	282
✓ 8	Exchange-Rate Management: Contractionary Devaluation and Real-Exchange-Rate Rules	286
1	Contractionary Devaluation	287
1.1	Effects on Aggregate Demand	287

1.1.1 Consumption	288
1.1.2 Investment	298
1.1.3 Nominal Interest Rates	301
1.2 Effects on Aggregate Supply	304
1.2.1 Effects on the Nominal Wage	305
1.2.2 Imported Inputs	308
1.2.3 Effects Through Costs of Working Capital	310
1.3 Empirical Evidence	312
1.3.1 Before-After Approach	312
1.3.2 Control Group Approach	313
1.3.3 Econometric Models	315
1.3.4 Macro-Simulation Studies	317
2 Real-Exchange-Rate Targeting	320
2.1 The Analytical Framework	321
2.2 Targeting the Real Exchange Rate	323
2.3 Effects of Macroeconomic Shocks	325
9 Stabilization and the Labor Market	329
1 The Model	330
1.1 The Formal Economy	332
1.2 The Informal Sector	334
1.3 Consumption and Wealth	335
1.4 Market for Informal Sector Goods	336
1.5 The Informal Labor Market	336
1.6 Government	337
2 Dynamic Structure	337
3 The Steady State	339
4 Government Spending Cut	342
PART III: STABILIZATION: THEORY, EVIDENCE, AND EMPIRICAL MODELS	347
10 An Overview of Stabilization Programs	349
1 Populism	351
1.1 Chile under Allende (1970–1973)	352
1.2 Peru under García (1986–1990)	354
2 Orthodox Money-Based Stabilization	355
2.1 Chile (September 1973)	356
2.2 Bolivia (August 29, 1985)	358
3 Exchange-Rate-Based (Southern Cone) Stabilization Programs	361
3.1 Chile (February 1978)	362
3.2 Uruguay (October 1978)	364

3.3	Argentina (December 1978)	366
4	Heterodox Programs	368
4.1	Argentina (June 14, 1985)	369
4.2	Israel (July 1, 1985)	373
4.3	Brazil (February 28, 1986)	379
4.4	Mexico (December 1987)	382
5	Argentina's Convertibility Plan (1991–1997)	385
6	Brazil's Real Plan (1994–1997)	390
7	Lessons of Stabilization	395
11	Inflation and Short-Run Dynamics	397
1	Models of the Inflationary Process	397
1.1	Inflation, Money, and Fiscal Deficits	398
1.1.1	Adaptive Expectations	400
1.1.2	Perfect Foresight	402
1.2	Food Supply, Distribution, and the Wage–Price Cycle	405
1.3	A Structuralist–Monetarist Model	411
2	Dynamics of Monetary and Exchange-Rate Rules	414
2.1	A One-Good Framework	414
2.1.1	Households	415
2.1.2	Government and the Central Bank	418
2.1.3	Money Market Equilibrium	419
2.1.4	Dynamic Form	419
2.1.5	Devaluation Rule	421
2.1.6	Credit Growth Rule	425
2.1.7	Dynamics with Alternative Fiscal Policy Rules	427
2.2	A Three-Good Model with Flexible Prices	428
2.2.1	Households	429
2.2.2	Output and the Labor Market	431
2.2.3	Central Bank and the Government	432
2.2.4	Market-Clearing Conditions	432
2.2.5	Dynamic Form	432
2.2.6	Policy Shocks	436
2.3	Extensions	442
2.3.1	Imported Intermediate Inputs	442
2.3.2	Sticky Prices	443
Appendix:	The Three-Good Model	447
12	Analytical Issues in Disinflation Programs	450
1	Topics in Exchange-Rate–Based Programs	450
1.1	The Boom–Recession Cycle	453
1.1.1	Expectations, Real Interest Rates, and Output	453
1.1.2	The “Temporariness” Hypothesis	457

1.1.3 An Assessment	466
1.2 The Behavior of Real Interest Rates	473
1.2.1 Credibility, Nominal Anchors, and Interest Rates	474
1.2.2 Expectations, Fiscal Adjustment, and Interest Rates	475
1.3 Disinflation and Real Wages	477
2 The Role of Credibility in Disinflation Programs	487
2.1 Sources of Credibility Problems	488
2.1.1 Internal Inconsistency	488
2.1.2 Time Inconsistency	489
2.1.3 Asymmetric Information	491
2.1.4 Policy Uncertainty and Stochastic Shocks	491
2.1.5 Political Uncertainty	492
2.2 Enhancing the Credibility of Disinflation Programs	493
2.2.1 Signaling and Sustainability	494
2.2.2 Price Controls	496
2.2.3 Central Bank Independence	503
2.2.4 External Enforcement and Foreign Assistance	505
2.2.5 Sequencing and Political Support	507
2.3 Policy Lessons	509
3 Disinflation and Nominal Anchors	512
Appendix: Output Effects of Price Controls	517
13 Empirical Models of Stabilization	521
1 Bank-Fund Models	523
1.1 The IMF Financial Programming Model	523
1.2 The World Bank RMSM Model	525
1.3 A Simple Bank-Fund Model	527
2 Three-Gap Models	527
3 Macroeconometric Models	531
3.1 Structure of Production	532
3.2 Aggregate Supply	533
3.3 Aggregate Demand	535
4 Computable General Equilibrium Models	537
Appendix: The Khan–Knight Monetary Disequilibrium Model	541
PART IV: EXTERNAL DEBT, CAPITAL FLOWS, AND CURRENCY CRISES	545
14 The Debt Crisis of the 1980s	547
1 Origins of the Debt Crisis	548
1.1 Public Sector Solvency	550

1.2	Application to the Debt Crisis	551
2	Policy Response and Macroeconomic Implications	556
3	Resolution of the Crisis: The Brady Plan	558
3.1	Outline of the Plan	558
3.2	Macroeconomic Effects: Conceptual Issues	559
3.3	An Overview of Some Early Brady Plan Deals	567
	Appendix: Incentive Effects of a Debt Overhang	572
15	Capital Inflows: Macroeconomic Effects and Policy Responses	575
1	Capital Inflows in the Early 1990s	576
1.1	The Domestic and External Context	576
1.2	Characteristics of the New Inflows	577
1.2.1	Magnitude	577
1.2.2	Timing	579
1.2.3	Regional and Country Destination	579
1.2.4	Asset Composition	580
1.2.5	Sectoral Destination	582
2	Factors Driving Capital Inflows	582
2.1	“Pull” Factors, “Push” Factors, and Changes in Financial Integration	582
2.1.1	“Pull” Factors	584
2.2.2	“Push” Factors	585
2.1.3	Financial Integration	585
2.2	The Empirical Evidence	586
2.3	An Assessment	591
3	Policy Responses: Issues and Evidence	591
3.1	Policy Options	591
3.1.1	Restrictions on Gross Inflows	593
3.1.2	Encouragement of Gross Outflows	594
3.1.3	Trade Liberalization	595
3.1.4	Exchange-Rate Flexibility	596
3.1.5	Sterilization	597
3.1.6	Policies to Influence the Money Multiplier	598
3.1.7	Fiscal Contraction	599
4	Variations in Policy Responses	599
4.1	Measures to Impede Gross Inflows	600
4.2	Encouragement for Gross Outflows	601
4.3	Measures to Reduce Reserve Accumulation	602
4.3.1	Commercial Policy	602
4.3.2	Exchange-Rate Policy	602
4.4	Measures to Restrict Base Money Growth	603
4.5	Reduction in the Money Multiplier	604

4.6 Restrictive Fiscal Policy	604
5 Macroeconomic Outcomes	605
6 Policy Lessons	607
Appendix: Reduction in the World Risk-Free Interest Rate in the Three-Good Model	612
16 Speculative Attacks and Exchange-Rate Crises	616
1 The Conventional Approach	617
1.1 The Basic Model	617
1.2 Extensions to the Basic Framework	623
1.2.1 Sterilization	623
1.2.2 Alternative Post-Collapse Regimes	624
1.2.3 Real Effects of an Anticipated Collapse	626
