

TRADITIONALITY
AND GENRE IN MIDDLE ENGLISH ROMANCE

Carol Fewster

D. S. BREWER

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	ix
I Middle English romance: theories and approaches	1
1 'Romance'?	1
2 Style	6
3 Structure	14
4 Romance's implied audience	22
5 Romances' manuscript context: the Auchinleck manuscript	38
II Romance style: Amis and Amiloun	50
1 Amis' romance style:
(i) shared generic style	51
(ii) shared with Guy of Warwick	60
2 Generic limitations: romance style and Christian didacticism	66
III Between romance structure and historical world-view: Guy of Warwick	82
IV Romance reception: society's adaptations of the Guy of Warwick story	104
V Romance narrativity: the Squyr of lowe degre	129
1 Style and elaboration	129
2 Structure and action	139
3 Implications for romance narrativity	147
Conclusion	150
Bibliography	152
Index	166