

Beyond the Conceivable

Studies on Germany, Nazism, and the Holocaust

Dan Diner

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA PRESS

Berkeley Los Angeles London

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION / 1

PART I • POLITICAL IDEOLOGY AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT

1. On the Brink of Dictatorship:
Carl Schmitt and the Weimar Constitution / 11
2. Knowledge of Expansion: On the Geopolitics of Karl Haushofer / 26
3. Norms for Domination: Nazi Legal Concepts of World Order / 49
4. The Catastrophe before the Catastrophe:
1938 in Historical Context / 78

PART II • PERCEPTIONS OF THE HOLOCAUST

5. The Limits of Reason:
Max Horkheimer on Anti-Semitism and Extermination / 97
6. Beyond the Conceivable:
The Judenrat as Borderline Experience / 117
7. Historical Understanding and Counterrationality:
The Judenrat as Epistemological Vantage / 130
8. On Rationality and Rationalization:
An Economic Explanation of the Final Solution / 138
9. Historical Experience and Cognition:
Juxtaposing Perspectives on National Socialism / 160

PART III • HOLOCAUST NARRATIVES

10. Varieties of Narration: The Holocaust in Historical Memory / 173
11. Nazism and Stalinism: On Memory, Arbitrariness,
Labor, and Death / 187
12. Cumulative Contingency:
Historicizing Legitimacy in Israeli Discourse / 201
13. On Guilt Discourse and Other Narrations:
German Questions and Universal Answers / 218

NOTES / 231

INDEX / 273