

Faith in Politics

Religion and Liberal Democracy

Bryan T. McGraw

Wheaton College

SUB Hamburg

A/533367

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Acknowledgements	page viii
Introduction	1
1 Europe's religious parties and the liberal consensus	33
2 The argument for deliberative restraint	65
3 The problem with secular reasons	88
4 Public reason and religious conflict	126
5 Religion and the problem of political autonomy	176
6 Making the most of conflict: religion and political toleration	218
Conclusion: toward a better sort of liberal democracy	260
Bibliography	293
Index	318