

SUB Hamburg

A/586110

After Empires

European Integration, Decolonization, and the Challenge from the Global South 1957–1986

GIULIANO GARAVINI

Translated by Richard R. Nybakken

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of Figure and Tables	vii
Chronology	viii
Introduction	1
1. The Third World and the Creation of UNCTAD	7
The spirit of Bandung	8
Recipes for development	19
Unionizing the Third World: The G77 and the origins of UNCTAD	30
2. The Myopia of the European Community	45
The passing of Imperial illusions	46
The wonder of modernity: In defense of the Common Market	59
The Algiers Charter	69
A Common Market without a common identity	78
3. 1968: Empires and Shopping Malls	90
The limits of Americanization	92
Thirdworldism and social rebellion	98
Losing one's religion	110
The closing circle	115
4. The Developing Countries' "Most Favored" Partner	122
The Atlantic widens	123
Santiago, Chile: the radicalization of the Third World	132
Sicco Mansholt	141
Regionalists and globalists	152
5. The Year of Oil	162
The oil weapon	163
The New international economic order	174
Europe's identity	183
The successes and failures of the Community's global policy	190
6. North-South Dialogues	201
G5, G6, G7	203
The North-South dialogue in Paris	215
Willy Brandt and global social democracy	230

Epilogue: Managing Globalization	241
Third Worlds	242
The European Single Market project	249
Bibliography	262
Index	287