

---

The Origins of Capitalism and the “Rise of the West”

---

ERIC H. MIELANTS

TEMPLE UNIVERSITY PRESS
Philadelphia

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	ix
CHAPTER ONE: Perspectives on the Origins of Merchant Capitalism in Europe	1
Orthodox Marxism	1
Brennerism (or the Brenner Approach)	2
The Modernization Theory	7
World-Systems Analysis	11
Temporal Predisposition	12
Spatial Predisposition	30
The Inter-City-State System of the Middle Ages	31
Tentative Conclusions	42
CHAPTER TWO: The Political Economies of China and Europe Compared	47
The Chinese Socioeconomic Revolution during the Sung Dynasty (circa 900–1280)	48
China and the Mongols	55
Ming China and Europe: Divergent Paths	60
Conclusions vis-à-vis European Capitalism	77

CHAPTER THREE: The Political Economies of South Asia and Europe Compared	86
Trade and Commodity Flows in the South Asian Region	86
States and State Structures in South Asia	93
The Strategies of Elites in South Asia and Europe	102
The Impact of the Perilous Frontier	112
Conclusions	121
CHAPTER FOUR: The Political Economies of Western Europe and Northern Africa Compared	125
Northern Africa and the Sudanic States (circa 1200–1500)	125
North African Cities, States, and the Balance of Power in the Mediterranean	136
Conclusions	143
CHAPTER FIVE: Conclusion: Was the Western-European City-State in the Middle Ages a European Miracle?	154
Bibliography	163
Index	237