

Envisioning a Sustainable Development Agenda for Trade and Environment

Edited by Adil Najam, Mark Halle, and Ricardo Meléndez-Ortiz

Contents

List of Figures and Tables	v
Acknowledgments	vi
Acronyms and Abbreviations	viii
List of Contributors	xi
Chapter 1: Searching for Southern Agendas on Trade and Environment Adil Najam, Ricardo Meléndez-Ortiz, and Mark Halle	1
Chapter 2: The Case for a Positive Southern Agenda on Trade and Environment Mark Halle and Ricardo Meléndez-Ortiz	9
Chapter 3: Southern Priorities for Trade and Environment: Regional Comparisons Hugo Cameron	29
Chapter 4: Envisioning an Arab Agenda for Trade and Environment Carol Chouchani Cherfane and Karim Makdisi	49
Chapter 5: Promoting Trade for Sustainable Development in West Africa Falou Samb	77
Chapter 6: An Alternative Environment and Development Vision for Southern and Eastern Africa Yash Tandon	95
Chapter 7: Trade and Environment Negotiations: A South American Perspective Pedro da Motta Veiga	117

Chapter 8: Redesigning the World Trading System for Sustainable Development: A View from Central America Alejandro Nadal	137
Chapter 9: The Caribbean Community in Trade and Environment Negotiations Taimoon Stewart	159
Chapter 10: Trade and Environment in Asia: Snipping the WTO's Gordian Knot Simon S. C. Tay	179
Chapter 11: Advancing the Trade-and-Environment Agenda: Seeking Regional Cooperation in Northeast Asia Joy A. Kim	205
Chapter 12: The Emerging Dimensions of a Southern Agenda for Trade and Environment Adil Najam	225
References	247
Index	263