 Part B    Key Concepts in Non-Conviction Based Asset Forfeiture.....	27
Prime Imperatives .....	29
1. Non-conviction based (NCB) asset forfeiture should never be a substitute for criminal prosecution.....	29
2. The relationship between an NCB asset forfeiture case and any criminal proceedings, including a pending investigation, should be defined.....	30

3. NCB asset forfeiture should be available when criminal prosecution is unavailable or unsuccessful .....31
4. Applicable evidentiary and procedural rules should be as specific as possible.....33

Defining Assets and Offenses Subject to NCB Asset Forfeiture .....37

5. Assets derived from the widest range of criminal offenses should be subject to NCB asset forfeiture.....37
6. The broadest categories of assets should be subject to forfeiture .....38
7. The definition of assets subject to forfeiture should be broad enough to encompass new forms of value .....43
8. Tainted assets acquired prior to the enactment of an NCB asset forfeiture law should be subject to forfeiture .....44
9. The government should have discretion to set appropriate thresholds and policy guidelines for forfeiture .....47

Measures for Investigation and Preservation of Assets .....51

10. The specific measures the government may employ to investigate and preserve assets pending forfeiture should be designated.....51
11. Preservation and investigative measures taken without notice to the asset holder should be authorized when notice could prejudice the ability of the jurisdiction to prosecute the forfeiture case.....54
12. There should be a mechanism to modify orders for preservation, monitoring, and production of evidence and to obtain a stay of any ruling adverse to the government pending reconsideration or appeal of any order that could place forfeitable property beyond the reach of the court .....55

Procedural and Evidentiary Concepts.....57

13. The procedural and content requirements for both the government's application and the claimant's response should be specified.....57
14. Fundamental concepts such as the standard (burden) of proof and use of rebuttable presumptions should be delineated by statute .....58
15. Where affirmative defenses are used, defenses to forfeiture should be specified, along with the elements of those defenses and the burden of proof.....63
16. The government should be authorized to offer proof by circumstantial evidence and hearsay .....65
17. Applicable statutes of limitations (prescription) should be drafted to permit maximum enforceability of NCB asset forfeiture .....66

Parties to Proceedings and Notice Requirements .....	69
18. Those with a potential legal interest in the property subject to forfeiture are entitled to notice of the proceedings.....	69
19. A prosecutor or government agency should be authorized to recognize secured creditors without requiring them to file a formal claim .....	70
20. A fugitive who refuses to return to the jurisdiction to face outstanding criminal charges should not be permitted to contest NCB asset forfeiture proceedings.....	71
21. The government should be authorized to void transfers if property has been transferred to insiders or to anyone with knowledge of the underlying illegal conduct.....	73
22. The extent to which a claimant to forfeitable assets may use those assets for purposes of contesting the forfeiture action or for living expenses should be specified .....	74
Judgment Proceedings .....	79
23. Consider authorizing default judgment proceedings when proper notice has been given and the assets remain unclaimed.....	79
24. Consider permitting the parties to consent to forfeiture without a trial and authorizing the court to enter a stipulated judgment of forfeiture when the parties agree to such procedure.....	79
25. Specify any remedies that are available to the claimant in the event the government fails to secure a judgment of forfeiture .....	80
26. The final judgment of NCB asset forfeiture should be in writing .....	82
Organizational Considerations and Asset Management.....	83
27. Specify which agencies have jurisdiction to investigate and prosecute forfeiture matters .....	83
28. Consider the assignment of judges and prosecutors with special expertise or training in forfeiture to handle NCB asset forfeitures.....	84
29. There should be a system for pre-seizure planning, maintaining, and disposing of assets in a prompt and efficient manner .....	85
30. Establish mechanisms to ensure predictable, continued, and adequate financing for the operation of an effective forfeiture program and limit political interference in asset forfeiture activities.....	89
International Cooperation and Asset Recovery .....	95
31. Correct terminology should be used, particularly when international cooperation is involved.....	95
32. Extraterritorial jurisdiction should be granted to the courts .....	97

33. Countries should have the authority to enforce foreign provisional orders .....	99
34. Countries should have the authority to enforce foreign forfeiture orders and should enact legislation that maximizes the enforceability of their judgments in foreign jurisdictions .....	100
35. NCB asset forfeiture should be used to restore property to victims .....	103
36. The government should be authorized to share assets with or return assets to cooperating jurisdictions .....	105
