

European Foundation for the Improvement of Living and Working Conditions

ERM REPORT 2007

Restructuring and employment in the EU: The impact of globalisation

Contents

Overview	1
Introduction	7
Chapter 1: Economic globalisation and labour markets:	9
The nature and logic of trade pre-1980	10
Emergence of the 'Tiger economies'	11
Key empirical characteristics of recent international trade	12
Fragmentation, outsourcing and offshoring	17
Trade, offshoring and labour markets	20
Chapter 2: Evidence of offshoring in the European Restructuring Monitor	25
Cases of restructuring involving offshoring	26
Cases of relocation within the EU15	27
Offshoring by Member State	28
Offshoring by sector	29
Types of job delocalised	32
Regions of destination of delocalised activities	34
Regions of destination by sector	35
Regions of destination by activity	35
Nationality of the enterprises that offshore	38
Enterprise nationality by region of destination	41
Concluding remarks	42
Chapter 3: Future perspectives on globalisation and its policy implications	45
An emerging new globalisation paradigm?	45
Quantifying service jobs at risk	47
Policy implications of a new globalisation paradigm	48
Limits to offshoring	50
The future scale of globalisation	51
Is Chinese and Indian growth sustainable?	54
Concluding remarks	57
Chapter 4: Mitigating negative effects of globalisation	59
The role of the government in labour market adjustment	60
Chapter 5: Active labour market policy and displaced workers	63
Potentials and limits of active labour market policy	63
Targeting active labour market policy measures	65
Evaluating active labour market policy measures	66

Evidence of the impact	67
Efficiency and equity when targeting displaced workers	69
Empirical evidence of the costs of job displacement	72
Appropriate types of active labour market policy for displaced workers	74
Concluding remarks	78
Chapter 6: Active labour market policies for trade-induced displacement	79
Experiences from the United States – Trade Adjustment Assistance	79
The European Globalisation adjustment Fund	83
Chapter 7: Social partners and relocation	89
Relocation and European Works Councils	89
Relocation and trade union response in some high-skilled white-collar unions	92
The Danish approach: Social partnership, vocational education and training	96
Main policy conclusions	98
Bibliography	101
Appendix 1: The European Restructuring Monitor	107