

Trade and Empire
in the Eighteenth-Century Atlantic World

By

Andrew Hamilton

Cambridge Scholars Publishing

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Acknowledgements .....	vii
------------------------	-----

Introduction

Political Economy and the Changing Face of Empire

The language of commercial ideology .....	viii
Liberalism and mercantilism: disaggregation as a method .....	xvi

Chapter One

Laissez-faire* and Reason of State

A genealogy of laissez-faire .....	1
Anglo-American or French genealogy? .....	4
Gournay, d'Argenson and laissez-faire .....	7
The providential argument and its early modern carriers.....	12
Reason of state and the rich country-poor country model.....	17

Chapter Two

Toward a Common Liberal Vision of the Atlantic World

Shelburne and his circle .....	25
Shelburne's views on commercial expansion in the modern world .....	29
Shelburne's theory of informal empire .....	32
Shelburne and the Dissenters .....	35
Benjamin Vaughan enters circle .....	41

Chapter Three

Commonwealthmen, Dissenters, and American Radicals:

Benjamin Vaughan in his Circle

Positioning Vaughan within the larger circles .....	51
Early biographical connections and the Club of Honest Whigs .....	54
Importance of Vaughan's editing of Franklin's writings .....	61
The Wedderburn Affair.....	66
Vaughan and the peace negotiations of 1782-3 .....	69
Interlude between peace and revolution.....	72
Remnants of the circle .....	74

Chapter Four*From Conquest to Commerce

The Union debate as context.....	77
Raison d'état and the shift from the passions to the interests.....	82
Doux-commerce , Hugo Grotius, and society.....	90
The Spanish question, mercantilism, and the shift to doux-commerce as a policy decision.....	97
Conquest to commerce as a philosophy of history.....	105

Chapter Five*Benjamin Vaughan and the Liberal Moment

Vaughan's writings before 1788.....	111
Vaughan's New and Old Principles of Trade .....	124
The rich country-poor country model in Vaughan's writing.....	125
Doux-commerce language in New and Old Principles of Trade .....	132
Theory and practice.....	135
Providential distribution of goods and the cosmopolitan vision.....	138

Chapter Six*John Adams, Nationalism, and the Retreat from the Liberal Moment

John Adams and free trade.....	147
The collapse of the liberal moment.....	150

Bibliography.....	157
-------------------	-----

Index.....	166
------------	-----