

Power or Pure Economics?

Joseph A. Schumpeter and Yasuma Takata

Edited by Michio Morishima

Translated by Cyprian P. Blamires and Janet Hunter

84 5471

Contents

General Editor's Introduction	vii
Foreword: Joseph A. Schumpeter (1883–1950) and Yasuma Takata (1883–1972) by Michio Morishima	ix
PART I THE FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLE OF DISTRIBUTION THEORY Joseph A. Schumpeter, translated by Cyprian P. Blamires
I Preliminary Remark	3
II The Economics and Sociology of Distribution	6
III Foundations of the Wage Theory	32
IV The Social Marginal Product	48
V Critical Discussion	53
VI Peculiarities of the Labour Market	61
VII The Wage Theorem of Unilateral and Bilateral Monopoly	67
VIII The Problem of the 'Artificial Rise' of Wages	72
PART II EQUILIBRIUM AND POWER Yasuma Takata, translated by Janet Hunter
I Power and the Economy: The View of an Anti-Schumpeterian	89
1 Introduction	89
2 Schumpeter's view of the economic effects of power	91
3 Can pure economic theory claim to have autonomy?	93
4 Power and the prices of factors of production	97
5 Counter-criticism of Schumpeter's theory	101
II Why Can Wages be Rigid? An Alternative Foundation for Keynes' Premise	106
1 Keynes' supply function of labour, and his conscious support for power theory	106

2	A reconsideration of wage theory	108
3	Involuntary unemployment in its true light	110
4	The economic behaviour of people within the framework of the social order	114
III	Why Interest Remains Positive even in Static Equilibrium: Another Anti-Schumpeterian View	119
1	Introduction	119
2	The productivity of capital, and class relations	121
3	Theories of power since equilibrium theory	124
4	The dynamic theory of interest and power theory	126
5	New wage fund theory and power theory	129
6	The meaning and importance of the sociological explanation	133
7	The subsidiary nature of consumer demand	135
8	The circumstances under which profit is absorbed as interest – the separation of capitalist and enterprise	138
9	Conditions for realisation of profit – the advance payment economy and capital shortage	140
10	The inevitability of capital shortage – power relations	144
IV	Disequilibrium in Factor Markets due to Power, with Special Reference to Agricultural Land Rent	152
1	Recognised theories of land rent	152
2	Disequilibrium due to power	154
3	Three kinds of power	157
V	The Twentieth Century and Secular Disequilibrium in the Economy: A Power-Theoretic View	161
1	Marx, Keynes and Schumpeter	161
2	A power-theoretic stagnation theory	165
	Notes and References	170
	Bibliography	185
	Index	188