

894 155 989

Development studies – development research:
Germany's position in international perspective

Andreas Stamm

Bonn 2008

Contents

Abbreviations

Summary	1
1 Introduction	7
2 Development Research in Germany	8
2.1 Research as an element of German Development Cooperation (DC): Political framework conditions and governance aspects	9
2.2 Development Research as an element of German research promotion: Political framework conditions, governance aspects and actors	12
3 United Kingdom	14
3.1 Research as an element of British DC: Political framework conditions and governance aspects	14
3.2 Development Research as an element of British research promotion: Political framework conditions and governance aspects	18
3.3 Strengths and weaknesses as assessed by British actors	21
4 Netherlands	22
4.1 Development Research as part of Dutch ODA	23
4.2 Development-related research in the national system of research promotion	24
4.3 Development Research organizations in the Netherlands	27
4.4 Strengths and weaknesses as assessed by Dutch actors	28
5 Sweden	28
5.1 Structures of political governance and implementation	28
5.2 Programs and activities	30
6 Where does German Development Research stand by international comparison? A preliminary assessment	35
6.1 Specificities of the German case	35
6.2 New opportunities for strengthening Development Research in Germany	37
7 The four benchmark countries: Some common challenges, open questions and first recommendations	40
Bibliography	45
Annex	47