
Evaluative Lessons from World Bank Group Experience

Growth and Productivity in Agriculture and Agribusiness

Table of Contents

Abbreviations	vii
Acknowledgments	viii
Foreword	ix
Executive Summary	x
Management Response	xvi
Chairperson's Comments: Committee on Development Effectiveness (CODE)	xxii
Statement of the External Advisory Panel	xxiv
The Members of the External Advisory Panel	xxvi
 1. The Need to Boost Agricultural Productivity	 2
Trends in Funding for Agriculture	6
Conceptual Framework	7
Evaluation Scope and Methodology	8
 2. Strategy and Interventions	 12
World Bank	12
IFC	22
Summary and Implications	28
 3. World Bank Group Activities and Results	 32
Irrigation and Drainage	32
Research and Extension	37
Access to Credit	43
Access to Land and Formalization of Land Rights	46
Transport and Marketing Infrastructure	51
Policies, Markets, and Agribusiness	54
Summary and Implications Going Forward	60
 4. Institutional Factors	 64
Factors Specific to Borrowers	64
Factors Specific to the World Bank Group	69
Summary and Implications Going Forward	83
 5. Summary and Recommendations	 86
Recommendations	87

Appendixes

A	Evaluation Methodology and Instruments	91
B	Description and Performance of the Evaluation Portfolio	99
C	Identification of Subsector Portfolios	121
D	Determinants of Project Performance	126
	Endnotes	142
	Bibliography	153
	Photographs	171

Boxes

2.1	The Three Phases of the Bank's Strategic Approach to Agriculture	12
2.2	Livestock Sector and Fisheries in World Bank Projects	14
2.3	The Four Phases of IFC's Strategic Approach to Agriculture	21
2.4	IFC's Support for Animal Production and Processing	24
3.1	What Can Be Done to Ensure Good Results from Water User Associations?	36
3.2	Both Poor and Nonpoor Farmers Benefited from a World Bank– Supported Irrigation Project in Peru	37
3.3	IFC Development of a New Plantation and Irrigation System by a Fruit Producer	38
3.4	Engaging Producers in the Agricultural Knowledge System	40
3.5	Honduras' Access to Land Pilot: An Innovative Business Model	48
3.6	Land Access in Malawi Improved Agricultural Production	49
3.7	Examples of Bank Rural Infrastructure Projects That Benefited the Agricultural Sector	52
3.8	Construction and Operation of the Timbues Port by an IFC Client	53
3.9	The Challenging Experience with Cotton Sector Reform in West Africa	54
3.10	The Poor and Women Have Benefitted from IFC's Investment in a Vegetable Producer	55
3.11	IFC—A Combination of Advisory Service and Investment Helped Develop Vegetable Supply Chains in Southern Ukraine	57
3.12	The Government of Liberia, the World Bank, and IFC Working Together in the Country Transition to Recovery	59
3.13	The Importance of Synergies and Partnerships: China Irrigated Agriculture Intensification	60
4.1	Improving Coordination between the Transport and Agricultural Sectors: An Example from Azerbaijan	73
4.2	IFC—Supply-Chain Issues Near the Amazon Biome	78