

SFO 196 357

Governing Mandatory Health Insurance

Contents

Foreword xi
Acknowledgments xiii
Acronyms and abbreviations xv

Overview 1
Defining mandatory health insurance 1
Defining governance 1
Framework 2
Dimensions of good governance 3
Case studies 5
Lessons from governance trends 6
Dimensions of governance 7
Contextual factors 10
Remaining questions for research 10

1 Governing mandatory health insurance:
Concepts, framework, and cases 13
William D. Savedoff
Introduction 13
Overview and trends 15
Some definitions 20
An analytical framework 27
Four case studies 35

2	Good governance dimensions in mandatory health insurance: A framework for performance assessment	49
	B. Hansl, A. Rahola, P. Gottret, and A. Leive
	Introduction	49
	Good governance dimensions of mandatory health insurance	49
	Coherent decisionmaking structures	53
	Stakeholder participation	55
	Transparency and information	55
	Supervision and regulation	56
	Consistency and stability	57
	Methodology: Measuring MHI governance performance	58
	Results: MHI governance assessment in four countries	59
	Summary	67
3	Costly success: An integrated health insurer in Costa Rica	69
	James Cercone and José Pacheco
	Editors' introduction	69
	The trajectory toward universal coverage	70
	Governance of CCSS	72
	System performance	79
	Effect of governance on performance	83
	Annex 3.1 Dimensions, features, and indicators of good governance in mandatory health insurance: Costa Rica	88
	Interviewees	99
4	Governing a single-payer mandatory health insurance system: The case of Estonia	101
	Triin Habicht
	Editors' introduction	101
	Brief history and overview of the health insurance system	102
	Context	103

· Governance of the Estonian health insurance system	105
Performance of the Estonian health insurance system	112
Governance and performance	116
Summary	118
Annex 4.1 Dimensions, features, and indicators of good governance in mandatory health insurance: Estonia	119
5 Governing multiple health insurers in a corporatist setting: The case of the Netherlands	129
Hans Maarse
Editors' introduction	129
Introduction	130
The structure of mandatory health insurance in the Netherlands	132
Governance: System, insurers, and providers	134
Performance of mandatory health insurance	139
The new health insurance scheme	142
Some lessons	147
Annex 5.1 Governance in mandatory health insurance	148
Annex 5.2 Dimensions, features, and indicators of good governance in mandatory health insurance: The Netherlands	150
6 Governing a hybrid mandatory health insurance system: The case of Chile	161
Ricardo Bitrán, Rodrigo Muñoz, Liliana Escobar, and Claudio Farah
Editors' introduction	161
Framework for analyzing governance and performance	162
Governance	164
Performance	176
Does governance affect performance? FONASA's revival	178
Conclusions	180

Annex 6.1 Dimensions, features, and indicators of good governance in mandatory health insurance: Chile 182

7 Conclusions: Lessons from governance trends for developing countries 203

William D. Savedoff

Introduction 203

Caveats for applying lessons in low-income countries 204

Lessons 204

Unanswered questions 217

Index 221