Rethinking the Post-Soviet Experience

Markets, Moral Economies, and Cultural Contradictions of Post-Socialist Russia

Jeffrey Hass
Associate Professor, University of Richmond, Virginia
Contents

List of Tables x
Preface xi
Acknowledgments xvii

Introduction: Rethinking the Political Economy of Post-Socialism 1
   Post-Soviet scholarship, theory, and social–economic normality 4
   Cultural contradictions of post-socialism 10
   Culture and economy at work: Moral and market economies 19

1 Culture and Post-Socialism: The Moral Economy of Market-Building 23
   Dynamics of economic organization—and reorganization 26
      States and economies 27
      Fields 30
   Cultural contradictions and moral economies: Revisiting a concept 34
   Cultural contradictions: Conflict, confusion, and innovation 34
   Back to moral economy 38
   Specifying “moral economy” 41
   Is moral economy relevant? Norms, frames, and authority 46
   Dynamics of moral and market economies: Emergence and organization 50
   Markets meet moral economies: Contradictory, complementary, and ambivalent 55

Part I Voices from below: Moral and Market Economies at Play

2 Moral versus Market Economies in the Post-Soviet Firm 61
   The politics of enterprise reform 62
      The enterprise as a field, polity, and moral community 63
      Cultural contradictions of enterprise reform 65
Moral and market economies of the Soviet and post-Soviet enterprise 68
Moral and market economies complementary . . . 70
... But possibly contradictory 73
Contradictions unleashed: Organizational revolution 77
Balancing moral and market economies 82
Exchange relations within enterprises: Moral and market economies clash 88
Limits of decentralization: Market realities and the moral economy of governance 93

3 Moral and Market Economies Meet: Remaking Exchange 97
Unleashing autonomy: Cultural contradictions of learning post-Soviet exchange 100
Liberalization, collapse, and the search for certainty 101
From contacts to contracts and learning post-Soviet exchange 105
Problematic enforcement: The state 107
Hostages of necessity: Prepayments and reputation 110
The moral economy of contract: Collective identification and the Prisoners' dilemma 114
The moral economy—or market economy?—of mafia and bandity 117
The logic of bandity 119
Bandity and business in action 124
Remaking the foundations of exchange 128

Part II Rethinking Narratives of the Foundations of Capitalism

4 Contradictions of Post-Socialist Value: Moral Economy of Money 135
Cultural contradictions of post-Soviet money: Value and multiple currencies 137
Multiple monies emerge: Forms and meanings of value 141
A moral economy of barter 146
The ruble as cultural project and a state-led moral economy of money 150
Cultural contradictions of valuation: Moral and market economies of pricing 153
Cultural contradictions of post-Soviet capital 158
| Market and moral economies of finance: Banks, capital, and investment | 159 |
| Cultural contradictions and moral economies of risk and responsibility | 171 |
| Cultural contradictions of value and remaking post-Soviet “worth” | 177 |

5 A Tsar is Born? A Moral Economy of the Post-Soviet State | 179 |
- Cultural contradictions and moral economies of the state | 182 |
- The symbolic dimension of the state and fields of power | 183 |
- Formula of rule and a moral economy of security | 186 |
- The social construction of the state and the role of property | 188 |
- Reconstituting property, fields, and the state: Markets ascendant | 190 |
- Framing and remaking state and property: Framing and responding to privatization | 191 |
- Market and moral economies of governance: Control and resistance | 196 |
- Putin's moral economy of security | 204 |
- "Dictatorship of Law": Remaking state and property... again | 206 |
- A new formula of rule and moral economy emerge: National economic security | 209 |
- The new moral economy tested: Medvedev's presidency and the crisis of 2008 | 217 |
- Conclusion: Cultural contradictions and moral economies of states and property | 219 |

Conclusion: Rethinking the Post-Soviet Experience Twenty Years On | 222 |
- Rethinking the narrative: What is—was?—post-Socialism? | 225 |
- Cultural contradictions, moral economies, and lessons of post-Soviet change | 228 |
- A moral to the story? | 232 |

Notes | 236 |
Bibliography | 251 |
Index | 272 |