

South Asian Partition Fiction in English

From Khushwant Singh to Amitav Ghosh

Rituparna Roy

AMSTERDAM UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Acknowledgements	9
Introduction	13
Theories of partition – why/when/ironies	13
Historiography of the Partition	18
Representation in literature	20
The IE Novel – Gandhian whirlwind/partition preoccupation/ Punjab bias	21
The six novels studied in this book	24
Novels not selected for study	28
Filling up a lacuna	29
1 Partition: The Holocaust	33
Iconic status of Train to Pakistan	33
Symbolic significance of trains	35
The five events of the narrative	37
Flaws/Jugga, and Singh's redeeming vision	44
Manohar Malgonkar's A Bend in the Ganges	47
Malgonkar's fascination with history	48
Double-hero/pluralistic method	49
The Hindu-Muslim question	50
Revolutionary terrorism vs. non-violence	53
The failure of both ideologies	61
2 Women during the Partition: Victim and agent	63
The Pakistani version of the partition	64
The Partition in Bapsi Sidhwa's novels	66
Ayah's Circle, Ice-candy man and Ayah's abduction	67
Gurdaspur and Lahore	72
'Recovery and rehabilitation' – Hamida and Ayah	74
Lenny's awakening consciousness	78
Agency to women	79
Anita Desai's Clear Light of Day	80
Desai stereotyped	80
Critics on the novel	81
Clear Light of Day as a Partition novel	82

Bim enabled	87
Desai's revisioning of the traditional Partition narrative	87
3 The making of a nation: Religion or language?	89
Midnight's Children : A watershed	89
Two aspects of the novel's representation of history usually missed	91
Freedom at midnight: The moment of birth	92
Bombay-Karachi-Dhaka	98
1971 Bangladesh Liberation War	101
Rushdie and Ghosh	108
4 Imagined communities: Questioning the border	111
Proust and the anti-Sikh riots	111
Midnight's Children and The Shadow Lines	112
Four ways to read the novel	112
Of borders and lost histories	113
The Shadow Lines and the aftermath of the Partition	114
Why Tribib got killed in Jindabahar Lane	118
Meaninglessness of borders – colonial and post-colonial perspectives of the nation	122
Imagined communities	124
Warring critics, and an author in denial	126
Ghosh's real antecedents	128
Conclusion	131
Three factors determining the thrust of the narratives	132
Interflows of images/motifs	135
Glossary	139
Notes	141
Bibliography	163
Index	171