
The British Idealists

EDITED BY
DAVID BOUCHER
University of Wales, Swansea

Contents

Acknowledgements	page vii
Introduction	viii
Idealist biographies	xxxiv
Select bibliography	xliv
A note on the texts	xlvi
Evolution and society	1
1 Henry Jones, The Social Organism (1883)	3
2 Andrew Seth (Pringle-Pattison), Man's Place in the Cosmos	30
Professor Huxley on Nature and Man (1893 and 1897)
3 Bernard Bosanquet, Socialism and Natural Selection (1895)	50
4 D. G. Ritchie, Ethical Democracy: Evolution and Democracy (1900)	68
Individualism, collectivism and the general will	95
5 F. H. Bradley, Ideal Morality (1876; revised 1927)	97
6 Bernard Bosanquet, The Reality of the General Will (1895)	130
7 D. G. Ritchie, The Rights of Minorities (1891 and 1893)	142
8 J. S. Mackenzie, The Dangers of Democracy (1906)	156
9 Edward Caird, Individualism and Socialism (1897)	173
10 Henry Jones, The Coming of Socialism (1910)	195

Contents

The State and international relations	215
11 T. H. Green, The Right of the State Over the Individual in War (1886)	217
12 J. H. Muirhead, What Imperialism Means (1900)	237
13 John Watson, German Philosophy in relation to the War (1916)	253
14 Bernard Bosanquet, The Function of the State in Promoting the Unity of Mankind (1917)	270
Index	296