

Portals

people, processes and technology

Edited by
Andrew Cox

facet publishing

Contents

Introductory preface v

Section 1: Core themes 1

- 1 Definitions and debates 3
Andrew Cox
- 2 Portals or filters? Identifying quality on the internet 14
Andrew Madden
- 3 Portal architectures 24
Tom Franklin
- 4 Personalization initiatives in the public and academic domains 38
Mark Hepworth, Steve Proberts, Fadi Qutaishat and Geoff Walton
- 5 User needs analysis and evaluation of portals 52
Panayiotis Zaphiris, Aspasia Dellaporta and Dean Mohamedally
- 6 Managing portal services 63
Stephen Emmott

Section 2: The library and the portal 77

- 7 Ready to use: consumer, subject and other public portals 81
Ian Winship
- 8 Portals and university libraries 100
John A. MacColl
- 9 Library portals 115
Ron Davies

Section 3: The portal in the corporate sector 123

- 10 Information at your fingertips: B2E portal as a strategic tool for today's workforce 125
Ly Fie Sugianto and Dewi Rooslani Tojib
- 11 Enterprise information portals 138
Martin White

Section 4: Portals in the public sector 147

- 12 Community portals and the e-Confluence Zone: where bottom-up meets top-down 149
Stephen Musgrave
- 13 Portal implementation in UK higher education institutions: a comparative analysis 167
Yvonne Klein
- 14 MyUU: a case study of the Utrecht University portal 188
Peter Schelleman

Section 5: The future 199

- 15 The future of portals? 203
Balviar Notay
- 16 Managing web-based information in an arts and humanities research environment 209
Jared Bryson
- 17 Portals and Web 2.0 221
Chris Awre

The contributors 231Index 239