

Designing Portals: Opportunities and Challenges

Ali Jafari

Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI), USA

Mark Sheehan

Montana State University, USA

Information Science Publishing

Hershey • London • Melbourne • Singapore • Beijing

Designing Portals: Opportunities and Challenges

Table of Contents

Preface	vi
Ali Jafari, IUPUI, USA
Chapter I. Introduction	1
Mark Sheehan, Montana State University, USA
Ali Jafari, IUPUI, USA
SECTION I: DESIGNING PORTALS: THEORY AND PRACTICE
Chapter II. The ABCs of Designing Campus Portals	7
Ali Jafari, IUPUI, USA
Chapter III. Keeping Your Eyes on the Prize: Using Inquiry to Increase the Benefits of Institutional Portals	28
Stephen C. Ehrmann, The Flashlight Program, USA
Chapter IV. Portals: Your Institution's Reputation Depends on Them	37
William H. Graves and Kirsten Hale, Eduprise, USA
Chapter V. Developing A Portal Channel Strategy	51
Jameson Watkins, University of Kansas Medical Center, USA
Chapter VI. Campus Portal Strategies	68
David L. Eisler, Weber State University, USA
Chapter VII. The Next Generation of Internet Portals	89
Ali Jafari, IUPUI, USA

SECTION II: CASE STUDIES OF CAMPUS PORTALS

Chapter VIII. Indiana University's Enterprise Portal as a Service Delivery Framework	102
---	------------

James Thomas, Indiana University, USA

Chapter IX. Begin with the End (User) in Mind: Planning for the San Diego State University Campus Portal	127
---	------------

James P. Frazee, Rebecca Vaughan Frazee and David Sharpe, San Diego State University, USA

Chapter X. Values-Based Design of Learning Portals as New Academic Spaces	162
--	------------

Katy Campbell and Robert Aucoin, University of Alberta, Canada

Chapter XI. Building a Campus Portal—A Strategy that Succeeded	186
---	------------

Anne Yandell Bishop, Wake Forest University, USA

SECTION III: VENDORS' PERSPECTIVES

Chapter XII. Portals Unlock the Knowledge that Drives Business Value	202
---	------------

Robert Duffner, BEA Systems, Inc., USA

Chapter XIII. Portal Technology and Architecture: Past, Present and Future	220
---	------------

Christopher Etesse, Blackboard Inc., USA

Chapter XIV. Building a Virtual Campus	238
---	------------

Stephen Ast and Cassandra Gerfen, eCollege, USA

Appendix I. Online Survey Results	256
--	------------

Mark Sheehan, Montana State University, USA

Appendix II. Educational Portal White Paper	270
--	------------

Ali Jafari, IUPUI, USA

About the Authors	291
--------------------------------	------------

Index	298
--------------------	------------