

TRANSFORMING RUSSIA AND CHINA

Revolutionary Struggle in the Twentieth Century

William G. Rosenberg and Marilyn B. Young

New York Oxford
OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
1982

CONTENTS

A Note on Transliteration and Pronunciation xix

Chapter 1 REVOLUTIONARY RUSSIA AND THE DILEMMAS OF SOCIAL DEMOCRACY 3

- The Dying Village 3
- Populist Strategies for Change 6
- "Modernizing" Russia 10
- Early Russian Marxism 12
- Lenin and the Problems of Worker Activism 17
- Defining the Tasks of Revolutionary Marxism 22
- The Revolution of 1905 27
- Dilemmas of Social Democracy 33

Chapter 2 1917: THE PARADOX OF VICTORY 35

- The February Revolution 35
- The Goals of "Ordinary" and "Privileged" Russia 38
- Institutional Dualities 42
- Lenin's Return and the April Theses 45
- Deepening of the Revolution 47
- Revolutionary Politics: July to October 52
- Perspectives on October 54

- Bolshevik "Democracy" 56
- War Communism and the Social Aspects of Civil War 62
- The Nature of Proletarian Dictatorship 65
- Kronstadt and Its Aftermath 68

Chapter 3 CHINA AND THE MEANINGS OF RUSSIA'S REVOLUTION 72

- Imperialism 72
- Before the Fall: The Limits of Qing Reform 75
- The Revolution of 1911 78
- The Limits of Political Reform under the Republic 81
- May Fourth 86
- The Appeal of Marxism-Leninism 88
- Revolutionary Organization 91

Chapter 4 SHANGHAI: THE PARADOX OF DEFEAT 96

- The Contradictions of National Revolution 96
- Mobilizing against Warlords and Imperialists 100
- Dilemmas of the "Bloc Within" 106
- The Northern Expedition 108
- The Shanghai Massacre and the Bloody Summer of 1927 112
- Seeking Virtue in Necessity 117

Chapter 5 VANGUARDS: THE PARTIES AND PARTY-MASS RELATIONS IN THE 1930s 120

- The Vanguard Issue 120
- NEP and Its Contradictions 125
- Red Political Power in Jiangxi 135
- Symbolism and Substance in the Long March 142
- Building a New Base in Shaanxi 146
- Assaulting Backwardness in Russia 147
- To Be in the Vanguard 156
- Enemies of the People 159

Chapter 6 GREAT PATRIOTIC STRUGGLES: THE SOVIET UNION AND CHINA IN WORLD WAR II 167

- Nationalism and Revolution 167
- The United Front in China 168
- Revolutionary Virtue in Military Necessity 174

War with Japan	178
Zhengfeng	178
“Modern” Men and Women in Yanan	183
Bourgeois Europe and Socialist Russia	189
The Nazi-Soviet Pact and the Outbreak of War	194
The Great Patriotic Struggle	198
Russia’s Staggering Victory	201
Chapter 7	SOCIALIST ROADS AND THE VARIETIES OF RECOVERY 210
Defining the Tasks of Soviet Reconstruction	210
The Cult of Personality	213
Social Consequences of High Stalinism, 1946–1953	216
Civil War in China	220
The CCP Assumes State Power	226
Stalin’s Death and the Comparative Tasks of New Socialist Development	228
Political Consolidation in China	231
China’s New Socialist Road	236
New Socialist Roads in the USSR	238
Chapter 8	GREAT LEAPS FORWARD: IRONIES AND CONTRADICTIONS, 1954–1964 244
Collectivization in China	245
The Soviet Twentieth Party Congress and Its Aftermath	252
The Problem of the Intellectuals	257
New Directions in China	258
China’s Great Leap Forward	263
Russia’s “Great Leap” under Khrushchev	267
Revolutionary Process and the Sino-Soviet Split	274
Chapter 9	CULTURAL REVOLUTION AND THE QUESTION OF STABILIZATION 279
Retrenchment in China	280
Contradictions of Revitalization in the USSR	283
Contradictions of Stabilization in China	290
The Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution	296
Further Aspects of Cultural Change	306
Aftermath	313

Chapter 10	STRAW SANDALS: THE AMBIGUITIES OF POWER.	316
	"Revisionism" in the Early 1970s	316
	The Ambiguities of Power	324
Notes		335
Chronology of Major Events		359
Suggestions for Further Reading		363
Index (with Brief Biographical Notations)		373