

Constructing Russian Culture in the Age of Revolution: 1881–1940

Edited by

Catriona Kelly and David Shepherd

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS

1998

Contents

| | |
|--|------|
| List of Illustrations | ix |
| List of Contributors | xi |
| Translation and Transliteration | xiii |
| Introduction: Literature, History, Culture | 1 |

PART I Prologue: Key Concepts Before 1881 11

| | |
|--|----|
| Lichnost' : Notions of Individual Identity | 13 |
| Obshchestvennost' , Sobornost' : Collective Identities | 26 |
| Narodnost' : Notions of National Identity | 28 |
| Literaturnost' : Literature and the Market-place | 37 |
| Suggested Further Reading | 50 |

PART II Cultural Transformation in Late Imperial Russia 55

| | |
|---|-----|
| 1 The Objective Eye and the Common Good | 57 |
| Suggested Further Reading | 99 |
| 2 Commercial Culture and Consumerism | 106 |
| Suggested Further Reading | 156 |
| 3 Collapse and Creation: Issues of Identity and the Russian Fin de Siècle | 165 |
| Suggested Further Reading | 217 |

PART III Epilogue: Constructing a New Russia: Change and Continuity in the Aftermath of Revolution 225

| | |
|--|-----|
| Introduction: Iconoclasm and Commemorating the Past | 227 |
| New Boundaries for the Common Good: Science, Philanthropy, and Objectivity in Soviet Russia | 238 |
| Programmes for Identity: The 'New Man' and the 'New Woman' | 256 |
| Directed Desires: Kul'turnost' and Consumption | 291 |
| Conclusion: From 'Russian Empire' to 'Soviet Union' | 314 |
| Suggested Further Reading | 318 |

| | |
|-------|-----|
| Index | 331 |
|-------|-----|

| | |
|--------------------------------------|-----|
| Analytical Index of Names and Places | 348 |
|--------------------------------------|-----|