

Polish Academy of Sciences
Committee for Spatial Economy and Regional Planning

URBAN AND REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT – CONCEPTS AND EXPERIENCES

Editors:
Tamer Gök, Tadeusz Marszał

Warszawa 2004

CONTENTS

Tamer Gök, Tadeusz Marszał – Introduction	7
İlhan Tekeli, Melih Pınarcıoğlu – Commitment model for regional planning: how to unlock frozen gears of stagnant regions	9
Ayda Eraydin, Güldem Saral – Dynamics of regional integration, disintegration and exclusion within the global economic system	29
Ryszard Domański – The self-reinforcing of urban and regional development in the economy intensifying the application of knowledge. The conclusions from endogenous growth theory	57
Witold Zmitrowicz – Flux analysis: its importance in studies and in territorial planning	65
Piet H. Pellenbarg, Paul J. M. van Steen – Regional development patterns in the Netherlands. A demography of firms approach	73
David P. Amborski – Planning in Canadian city-regions: the greater Toronto area	97
Tadeusz Markowski – Challenges for management of Polish city – regions in an international, national and regional context	117
Tadeusz Marszał – Some remarks on metropolitan development – the case of the city of Lodz	129
Mariusz Lamprecht, Tadeusz Marszał – Small towns in Central Poland and their role in regional development	137
Solange Montagné-Villette – The economic revival of the northern periphery of Paris (Seine-Saint-Denis)	153
Marthinus Badenhorst, Marinda Schoonraad, Paul van Helden – After apartheid: shifting population patterns in Pretoria, 1996-2001	165
Notes on Authors	179