

National and European Identities in EU Enlargement

---

Views from Central and Eastern Europe

Edited by Petr Drulák

PRAGUE 2001

CONTENTS

List of Contributors .....	7
Networking Toward EU Integration .....	9
Introduction: The Return of Identity to European Politics .....	11
Petr Drulák
I. The Czech Experience of Identity .....	21
Jiří Brodský
II. From Defense Against the “Others” to the Formulation of its Own Interests: The Case of Slovakia .....	39
Ol’ga Gyárfášová
III. The National Identity and European Consciousness of Poles .....	57
Ireneusz Krzeminski
IV. Hungarian National and European Identity .....	69
András Balogh
V. Coming Home to Europe: The Reconstruction of Slovene National Identity in Relation to Europe .....	79
Kristina Plavšak
VI. The Construction of National and European Identity in Lithuania ..	95
Inga Vinogradnaitė
VII. European Values and Latvian Identity .....	113
Elga Freiberga
VIII. National and European Identities: The View from Estonia .....	129
Aksel and Marika Kirch
IX. Reinventing Romania, or Redefining the National Identity .....	145
Liviu Mureşan

X. The Crystallization of European Identities: The Bulgarian Case . . .	161
Andrey Ivanov
XI. Semper Idem? The Relationship of European and National Identities	179
Henrik Richard Lesaar
Conclusions: European and National Identities in the Accession Countries – the Role of the European Union . . . . .	195
Martin Brusis
Bibliography . . . . .	209