

Poland – A New Power in Transatlantic Security

Editors

MARCIN ZABOROWSKI

Centre for International Relations, Warsaw

DAVID H. DUNN

University of Birmingham, UK

FRANK CASS
LONDON • PORTLAND, OR

Contents

Foreword	Wyn Bowen and David Hall	vi
Preface: Dilemmas of a Newcomer	Marcin Zaborowski and David H. Dunn	vii
Acknowledgements		viii
Continental Drift? Transatlantic Relations in the Twenty-First Century	Adrian Hyde-Price	1
In a Search of a New Role. Poland vis-à-vis Euro-Atlantic Relations	Olaf Osica	21
Modernizing the Polish Military	Andrew A. Michta	40
From Security Consumer to Security Provider – Poland and Transatlantic Security in the Twenty-First Century	Kerry Longhurst	50
Poland: America's New Model Ally	David H. Dunn	63
Security and Defence in the New Europe: Franco-Polish Relations – Victim of Neglect?	Vanda Knowles	87
The German-Polish Security Partnership within the Transatlantic Context – Convergence or Divergence?	Kai-Olaf Lang	105
Poland and Transatlantic Relations in the Twenty-First Century	Marcin Zaborowski	123
Poland and Britain: The Future of an Atlanticist Partnership in Europe	Silke Pottebohm	135
Polish-Ukrainian Relations: A Strategic Partnership Conditioned by Externalities	Roman Wolczuk	143
Abstracts		151
About the Contributors		155
Index		157