

RUSSIA: The Next Ten Years

A Collection of Essays to Mark
Ten Years of the Carnegie Moscow Center

Editors: Andrew Kuchins and Dmitri Trenin

CARNEGIE MOSCOW CENTER
Carnegie Endowment for International Peace

MOSCOW 2004

CONTENTS

06 Preface

Jessica T. Mathews

08 Russia: The Next Decade (An Introduction)

Andrew Kuchins

THE ECONOMY

12 Economic Growth in Russia: Opportunities and Limitations

Yevgeny Gavrilentov

21 Public Administration Reform and the Development of Civil Society in Russia

Mikhail Dmitriev

27 Dilemmas of Privatization in Russia

Anders Åslund

33 Foreign Investors and Russia

Ksenia Yudaeva

POLITICS AND SOCIETY

39 Russian Power in 2014: An Attempt at Intuitive Forecasting

Lilia Shevtsova

44 Between Democracy and Dictatorship

Michael McFaul

50 Can Russia Abandon the "Super President"?

Andrei Ryabov

55 Will Russian Federalism Live to See 2014?

Nikolai Petrov

62 Unpredictable Nationalism and Predictable Islam

Aleksei Malashenko

68 Freedom of Speech and the Future of Russian Mass Media

Masha Lipman

75 Social Strata and Social Policy: From Lessons of the Past to New Strategies

Tatyana Maleva

83 Migration Challenges in the Coming Decade

Galina Vitkovskaya

FOREIGN POLICY AND SECURITY

90 Power, Democracy and U.S.-Russian Relations

Andrew Kuchins

99 New Priorities in Russian Foreign Policy: The CIS Project

Dmitri Trenin

106 Russian Nuclear Policy: Need and Self-Confidence

Rose Gottemoeller

114 Russia and Europe: Continental Drifts

Hannes Adomeit

119 Russia's Europe Dilemma: Democratic Partner vs. Authoritarian Satellite

Timofei Bordachev

125 Russia and the U.S. in the Southern Caucasus: Lessons To Be Learned

Anatol Lieven

131 Russia and Central Asia: The Challenge of Turning Subjects into Friends

Martha Brill Olcott

136 A Chance for the Far East

Vasily Mikheev

142 Russia and China: One Ambivalent Decade Succeeding Another

Bobo Lo

148 The Carnegie Mosaic (Instead of a Conclusion)

Dmitri Trenin