

A CLEAN SWEEP?

THE POLITICS OF ETHNIC CLEANSING IN WESTERN POLAND, 1945–1960

by T. David Curp

UNIVERSITY OF ROCHESTER PRESS

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction: Hearts and Minds and Land: Ethnic Cleansing and the Stabilization of Postwar Poland	1
1 How the East Was Lost: Germany's Struggle for the Polish-German Borderlands, 1870–1945	13
2 Who Won the West: The Colonists and Ethnic Cleansers of Poznań and Eastern Brandenburg in 1945	34
3 Acts of Sacrifice: Poland's Ethnic Cleansing and the End of Political Pluralism, 1945–47	55
4 Counterrevolution from Above and Abroad: The Delocalization of Politics and the Beginning of Polish Stalinism's Antinational Counterrevolution, 1947–49	80
5 Waging Counterrevolution: The Party-State's Struggle for Hearts, Minds, and Land in Wielkopolska, 1949–53	107
6 Revolutions before the Revolution: National Solidarity and the Long Retreat of Stalinism in Wielkopolska, 1953–56	131
7 The Revolutions Betrayed? The Poznań Revolt and the Polish Road to Nationalist Socialism, 1956–60	153
Conclusion: A Near Run Thing: From National Solidarity to Solidarity	186
Abbreviations	197
Notes	199
Bibliography	249
Index	261