

THE ARCHAEOLOGY OF IBERIA

The dynamics of change

Edited by
Margarita Díaz-Andreu and Simon Keay

London and New York

CONTENTS

List of figures and tables	x
List of contributors	xii
General editor's preface	xiii
Acknowledgements	xvi
1 Introduction	1
Simon Keay and Margarita Díaz-Andreu
2 Conflict and innovation: the development of archaeological traditions in Iberia	6
Margarita Díaz-Andreu
Introduction	6
The formation of professional archaeology in the Iberian Peninsula	8
Nationalist archaeologies: the first third of the twentieth century	16
Archaeology and military dictatorship: the muzzled decades	20
Iberian archaeology today	24
Acknowledgements	26
Notes	26
References	27
3 Behavioral transformations during the Pleistocene: an Iberian perspective	34
Josefa Enamorado
Introduction	34
The archaeological record in the Iberian Peninsula	35
Lower and Middle Pleistocene: a brief review	36
Upper Pleistocene	36
Late Upper Pleistocene	41
Environmental characteristics	49
Middle Pleistocene	50
Last Interglacial/Glacial cycle in the Atlantic zones	50
Last Interglacial/Glacial cycle in the Mediterranean zone	51

Behavioural transformations of Pleistocene hunter-gatherer populations in Iberia	53
Acknowledgements	59
Note	60
References	60
4 The Neolithic of the Iberian Peninsula	65
Genís Ribé, Walter Cruells and Miquel Molist
Introduction	65
The Palaeo-ecological framework	65
The origin of subsistence production in the Iberian Peninsula:
The Early Neolithic	66
Territory and settlement	70
Palaeo-economy	73
Burial	75
Middle Neolithic: The consolidation of a productive economy	76
Aspects of chronology and terminology	76
Settlement, economy and social context	76
Death: spaces and ritual	78
The Late Neolithic and transition to the Chalcolithic	80
Conclusions	81
Notes	81
References	81
5 The funerary world and the dynamics of change in southeast Spain (fourth–second millennia BC)	85
Almudena Hernando Gonzalo
Conclusions	93
Notes	94
References	94
6 The dynamics of the occupation of the middle basin of the river Guadiana between the fourth and second millennia BC: an interpretational hypothesis	98
Victor Hurtado
Introduction	98
The geographical context	99
Historiographical context of the GMB	99
The end of the Neolithic: The Araya-Lobo phase (2800–2300 BC)	101
The Full Chalcolithic: The Pijotilla phase (2300–2000 BC)	104
The Bell-Beaker horizon (2000–1800/1700 BC)	115

	The Guadajira-Solana I phase: Reflections on the transition to the Bronze Age (1800/1700–1500 BC)	120
	Conclusion	124
	Notes	124
	References	125
7	The Neolithic/Chalcolithic transition in Portugal: the dynamics of change in the third millennium BC	128
	Susana Oliveira Jorge and Vítor Oliveira Jorge
	Introduction	128
	The Alentejo and the Algarve	128
	Estremadura	134
	The Beiras	136
	The North	137
	Conclusions	140
	Notes	141
	References	141
8	The dynamics of change in northwest Portugal during the first millennium BC	143
	Maria Manuela dos Reis Martins
	Introduction	143
	Space, time and cultural evolution: the traditional view	144
	Space	144
	Time and cultural evolution	144
	The dynamics of change: an alternative view	146
	What change and why during the first millennium BC?
	Some considerations about concepts and data	152
	Notes	153
	References	154
9	Migration revisited: Urnfields in Iberia	158
	Gonzalo Ruiz Zapatero
	Introduction	158
	Urnfields in Iberia	159
	The funerary ritual of cremation	165
	Grooved ceramics	166
	Settlement and subsistence	168
	Anthropology and language	169
	Concluding remarks: Scenarios for the emergence of Urnfields	170
	References	171

10 The Iron Age Iberian peoples of the upper Guadalquivir valley	175
Arturo Ruiz Rodríguez
Introduction	175
The orientalizing aristocracy	177
The heroic aristocracy	182
References	189
11 Urban transformation and cultural change	192
Simon Keay
Introduction	192
Ideology as a mechanism of social change	195
Dynastic symbols and urban development	197
Arelate	197
Tarraco	197
The lower town	198
The upper town	202
The town overall	202
The urban landscape as a cognitive map	203
The development of a new historical order	204
Continuity and change	206
The social implications	207
Conclusion	208
Abbreviations	209
References	209
12 Hispania: from the second century AD to Late Antiquity	211
Isabel Rodà
Introduction	211
The transition from the first to second centuries AD	213
The Antonine Dynasty (AD 138–92)	214
The end of the second century AD	214
The Severan Dynasty (AD 193–235)	215
The third century after the Severans	217
The tetrarchy and the fourth century	219
The fifth century	223
References	226
13 Observations on historiography and change from the sixth to tenth centuries in the north and west of the Iberian Peninsula	235
Luis Caballero Zoreda
Introduction	235
The meaning of 'dynamics of change': continuity and rupture	237

The generally accepted historiography of the architecture and sculpture of the High Middle Ages in Spain	237
A different historiographical opinion	244
The implications of the 'non-Visigothist' theory for our understanding of historical change in the High Middle Ages	248
The reduction and disappearance of elements considered Visigothic	248
Architecture and sculpture: distinguishing between Visigothic and Islamic with Ummayyad influences	249
'Early Mozarabic'	251
The 'Mozarabism' of Asturian art	254
The relation between 'early Mozarabic' and Asturian art	256
Contradictions	257
Conclusions	257
Notes	260
References	261
 14 The origins of Al-Andalus (the eighth and ninth centuries): continuity and change	 265
Vicente Salvatierra Cuenca
Introduction	265
The pottery	267
The state of the question: a preliminary approach	268
The territory	269
The countryside	270
The urban environment	271
References	275
 15 All change? A commentary on Iberian archaeology	 279
Robert Chapman
References	290
 Index	 293